WASHINGTON.

The Crowd of Office-Seekers Growing Beautifully Less.

A Large Number of Nominations Confirmed by the Senate.

All The New-York Revenue Appointments Heartily Approved.

Unsuccessful Attempt of the Whisky Ring to Defeat Collector Bailey.

Senator Sprague's Charges Against Rhode Island Men Refuted.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, April 15.

As the nominations come from the President to the Senate, and as the confirmed appointees are again sent back to the proper departments in order that the legal commissions may be made out, so do the crowds of office-seekers and strangers in the city decrease. The proportion of departures to that of nominations is in the ratio of about twelve to one.

The outside scenes at the Capitol to-day were but reproductions of those of yesterday. The excitement dwindles day by day into narrower circles. The arrival of the President's Private Secretary was anxiously awaited of course by the expectant throngs who gloomily paced up and down in front of the entrances to the Senate Chamber, wondering and speculating on what the august body was doing within. At intervals the news would leak out through one channel or another that Brown or Jones or Smith had been confirmed, whereupon the respective friends of each would become jubilant, and, after making assurance doubly sure, take their departure.

The lobby as usual was well represented to-day. There are dozens of men here who are as certain to appear at the Capitol every day that Congress meets as is the meeting of the body itself. The number of the opposite sex interested in appointments and confirmations appears to be rather on the increase. What on earth can keep a waiting-room near the Senate Chamber as large as two moderate sized parlors full of women during the hours of the session, is a mystery to every one but themselves. While Congress was in session some plausible excuse might be made for their presence. It might be that they were the widows of soldiers endeavoring to secure pensions or arrearages of pay, or that they were unprotected and forlorn females who had claims against the Government, which they had come in person to prosecute. But under the present circumstances the only conclusion that can be reached is that they are in the employ of the office-seekers, and that female wiles, and stratagems are among the ways and means by which official position is attained. There was a sensible diminution in the number of people at the Capitol to-day. The hotels are not now directing strangers elsewhere to secure accommodations, as they were some weeks ago, and the prospect is that before the first of next month the city will be comparatively empty.

NOMINATIONS CONFIRMED.

In secret session, to-day, the Senate did fair work in the matter of confirmations, a list of which may be found elsewhere. There was no discussion on any nominee who had been favorably reported on by the Committee to which he had been referred, and the yeas and nays were not taken on any one.

THE SAN JUAN TREATY.

Late in the afternoon the San Juan treaty was taken up, on which a long and carefully prepared speech in opposition to its ratification was made by Senator HOWARD. The indications are to-night that it will be postponed until next session. No final disposition of it was hinted at to-day, and it comes up again to-morrow for further consideration. Senators are exceedingly anxious to get away. The constant torment to which they are subjected by the office-seekers has worn out the patience of the most patient, and one-half the body now would be delighted to-morrow if the President were to make the announcement that no more removals would be made until next December. They hold bravely to their work, however, and at the present rate of progress, the final adjournment will certainly take place before the end of next week.

NOMINATIONS WITHDRAWN.

A few nominations were withdrawn by the President to-day, the most noteworthy of which was that of Dr. LINDERMANN to be Consul at Lyons, France. General OSTERHAUS, the present incumbent, will remain there at least for some time longer.

THE NEW-YORK APPOINTMENTS.

The unanimous confirmation of all the New-York Revenue appointments to-day, including Collector BAILEY, has been the chief event of the day. Last night the agents of the Whisky Ring were elated because another special hearing had been ordered before the Finance Committee for this morning. The parties were accordingly all on hand. The accusers appeared in the persons of Mr. JOHN TRACEY, Jr., with Judge JOSHUA M. VAN COTT, of Brooklyn, as counsel. Mr. BAILEY appeared with District-Attorney B. F. TRACY, of Brooklyn, as counsel. There were present the full Committee save Senator BAYARD, the Democratic member, and Senator CONKLING, who was present by invitation. The charges which were scattered on the desks of members yesterday in anonymous form were presented to-day, as the prosecution announced with a flourish, over a responsible name, the same being JOHN TRACEY, Jr., the partner in three whisky establishments, one in New-York, one in Albany and a third in Boston. A half an hour was allotted to each side. Mr. VAN COTT led off with a discussion reviewing these printed charges, and endeavoring to make his case as strong as possible. He appeared simply as counsel, in response to the requirements of his retainer, and declined to indorse the charges himself. This occupied fifteen or twenty minutes. Mr. BAILEY answered the argument of Mr. VAN COTT himself, going over all the facts and showing the circumstances of each transaction, that they originated in his office in the usual course of business, had all been disposed of in a legitimate manner, and the moneys regularly accounted for. As an instance of the completeness of his vindication, it should be stated that yesterday these operators were engaged in calling Senators from their Chamber and exhibiting to them certain checks bearing BAILEY's indorsement, which they claimed was evidence of blackmailing operations; although the case with which these checks were connected was one which occurred so long ago that Mr. BAILEY had almost forgotten it, yet he telegraphed to New-York and promptly secured the record of the Court showing the nature of the case, the fact that it was a prosecution for three violations of the Revenue laws; that the taxes involved were $1,000, and that the penalty for each violation was $500, making $2,500 in all, upon payment of which the suit was discontinued, and the taxes paid into the Treasury and the penalties into the Court, as the law directs. Everything else was explained in an equally satisfactory manner. Mr. B. F. TRACY then occupied about ten minutes in calling the attention of the Committee to the character of Mr. BAILEY's services as a revenue officer, and to the character of the business of the men assailing him. He also called attention to the fact that there was no remonstrance here from New-York, either from the Press or the public, except from whisky men. Adverting to the charges, he said Mr. BAILEY was not charged with defrauding the Government, or with colluding with distillers, but rather with enforcing the law with too much rigor, and he thought the Committee and the Senate could afford to deal with such an officer with great charity. Judge VAN COTT sought to reply, but it was evident that the force of their assault was hopelessly broken. The Committee took no action, and, having been favorably reported on all yesterday, their cases went into the Senate doubly reinforced. When they were reached on the calendar, Senator NYE rose and asked a few questions which were answered promptly by Governor FENTON, and then the whole list, with Mr. BAILEY at the head, was confirmed without a dissenting voice. In closing this warfare, Mr. BAILEY addressed a letter to Senator SHERMAN, which shows the animus of his opponents so clearly that its concluding portion deserves to be given to the public. He says:

"It will be observed that the charges made against me are not that I have failed to execute the law, or that I have colluded with distillers and others to defraud the Government. Their complaint, on the contrary, is that I have enforced the law with too much rigor. The reason for this activity of the whisky ring is found in the 123 suits brought by me in the District Courts of the Southern, Eastern, and Northern Districts of New-York, and in Iowa, Kentucky and Massachusetts, for the forfeiture of distilleries, distilled spirits, and rectifying-houses. It is found further in the indictment, at my instance, of fifty-four leaders of the ring, and of persons engaged with them in conspiracies against myself and others, seven of whom have been sent to the State Prison or Penitentiary, ten have absconded, forfeiting their recognizances, and are hoping for opportunity to return through the success of this effort of their associates and allies. Upward of twenty, some of them persons of wealth and influence, have thus far succeeded in eluding trial in one way or another, and look to my defeat as their means of final escape. That, in the numerous cases which I have had, and the vast amount of litigation that has arisen therefrom, some oversights and mistakes have occurred, is not doubted, but no one can truly assert that I have ever, in my official capacity, willfully oppressed any man, or knowingly have been unfaithful to the trusts which the Government has committed to my charge."

The excellence of their records has saved Collector FIELD, of the Sixth, and Collector BLAKE, of the Seventh, notwithstanding the tremendous pressure of competition, especially in the case of the first-named officer. It is understood that these will not be disturbed. Collector FIELD who was formerly Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, has collected some thirteen millions of dollars since he has been in office, and only failed to collect less than one-third of one per cent. of all the amounts which have been assessed, including erroneous assessments. This is certainly very close work for a large metropolitan district. There were originally seven distilleries in his district, which have been steadily reduced by forfeiture until now only one remains. Collector BLAKE has held his office, with a short interruption, ever since the tax laws went into operation in 1862. He has proved himself a most capable and efficient officer, and his record is without a stain.

THE NEW NOMINATIONS.

The list of nominations to-day included fifty-five of all kinds. The most notable were Hon. CHAS. E. DELONG, of Nevada, a prominent Republican politician in that State, as Minister Resident to China and Japan. General BADEAU, late military Secretary on General GRANT's Staff, and author of the Military History of U. S. Grant, to be Assistant Secretary of Legation at London, a position which he will fill with much ability and dignity. Ohio gets another Territorial Governor—General E. M. MCCOOK, for Colorado—being the third official of that character from that State. MCCOOK was formerly Minister Resident to the Sandwich Islands, and came home to push through the Reciprocity Treaty with that Government. Colonel SCRIBNER was again nominated as Secretary of Montana, having been among those whose nominations lapsed last week. H. D. BARRON, nominated for Fifth Auditor of the Treasury, was formerly a State Senator and Speaker in the Wisconsin Legislature. He is a man of great ability. J. J. MARTIN, of whom not much is known, is placed as Sixth Auditor of the Treasury for the Post Office Department. LEWIS E. JOHNSON, nominated for United States Marshal for South Carolina, is a son of Hon. REVERDY JOHNSON, a South Carolina planter, but a hearty reconstructionist.

THE ENGLISH EMBASSY.

Mr. MOTLEY's instructions as Minister to England will be delivered to him in a few days. What these instructions will be may be readily surmised from the repeatedly expressed opinions of the President on the subject, and from the speech of Mr. SUMNER in the Senate yesterday, which is considered by all parties here to be a fair expression of the feeling of the country in reference to the course of England during the late war.

THE RHODE ISLAND SENATORS.

The personal differences between Senators SPRAGUE and ANTHONY and the BROWNS of Rhode Island are becoming more and more bitter. Senator ANTHONY made an explanation on the subject to-day in the Senate, and had the card of Messrs. BROWN, IVES & Co. read, in which certain statements of Mr. SPRAGUE are flatly contradicted. Mr. SPRAGUE, however, persists in the position he has taken, and says he is prepared to prove all his assertions.

COLORED FETE.

The colored people of the District will observe the celebration of their emancipation to-morrow by a procession, meetings, speeches, &c.

On motion of P. Phillips, Coles Bashford, of Arizona Territory, was admitted to practice as an attorney and counselor of this Court.

On motion of Hon. J. Hubley Ashton, J. Augustus Fay, Jr., of New-York, was admitted to practice as an attorney and counselor of this Court.

On motion of Mr. Cushing, Isaac N. Morris, of Illinois, was admitted to practice as an attorney and counselor of this Court.

On motion of Hon. Wm. Hogby, William Gouverneur Morris, of California, was admitted to practice as an attorney and counselor of this Court.

On motion of Hon. F. Lyle, Dickey Kirby Benedict, Esq., of New-Mexico Territory, was admitted to practice as an attorney and counselor of this Court.

Numerous decisions were delivered in the Supreme Court of the United States, to-day, as follows:

No. 127—The United States, plaintiff, vs. John Kirby et al. Certificate of division of opinion between the Judges of the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Kentucky. Mr. Justice FIELD delivered the opinion of the Court, answering the question certified in the negative. This suit involved the obstruction or detention of United States mails, the carrier having been arrested on a criminal charge. The Court held that while the law provided for cases of willful detention or obstruction, it did not prevent the arrest of a supposed criminal, it not being contemplated that the temporary detention of the mails should interfere with the course of justice in a criminal case.

No. 144—John E. Reeside, appellant, vs. The United States. The facts are briefly, Reeside had a contract for carrying mails in Arkansas, Mississippi, and Alabama in 1859, 1860 and 1861, at $65,000 a year. The law authorized the Postmaster-General to curtail or discontinue the service, but owing to the secession movements the Postmaster-General ordered a suspension only of the service, though the contractor asked for a discontinuance for the reason that if the service was merely suspended and he held responsible, he would be obliged to keep his teams, &c., in reserve at large expense. The suspension of the service was not applicable to the terms of the contract. Justice NELSON delivered the opinion of the Court, reversing the judgment of the Court of Claims, and remanding the cause with directions to enter a judgment for the plaintiff in conformity to its opinion.

No. 143—Cornelius K. Garrison, appellant, vs. The United States. Appeal from the Court of Claims. General Butler had made arrangements for a supply of arms for six regiments, (Minie rifles,) not to cost more than arms for the light troops. The description of arms was changed by Major Strong to Enfield rifles. The suit involved a balance of money. Justice Miller delivered the opinion of the Court, reversing the judgment of the Court below, and remanding the cause with instructions to enter judgment for the plaintiff. No decision was reached in the legal-tender cases.

The Blair election case was continued for advisement.

No. 141—Samuel H. Randall, plaintiff in error, vs. Lincoln F. Brigham, in error to the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Massachusetts. Mr. Justice Field delivered the opinion of the Court, affirming the judgment of the said Circuit Court in this cause, with costs.

No. 161—Ellen Kelly, appellant, vs. Ellen Owen et al. Appeal from the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. Mr. Justice FIELD delivered the opinion of the Court, affirming the decree of the said Supreme Court in this cause, with costs.

No. 142—John G. Cock, appellant, vs. Charles Izard. Appeal from the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Louisiana. Mr. Justice DAVIS delivered the opinion of the Court, reversing the decree of the said Circuit Court, and remanding the cause for further proceedings, in conformity to the opinion of this Court.

No. 150—James W. Finley, appellant, vs. Thomas M. Izett et al. Appeal from the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Iowa. Mr. Justice Miller delivered the opinion of the Court, affirming the decree of the said Circuit Court in this cause, with costs.

No. 151—The United States, plaintiff in error, vs. Adison R. Gilmore, in error to the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Nebraska. Mr. Justice Swayne delivered the opinion of the Court, reversing the judgment of the said Circuit Court, and remanding the cause for a venire facias a novo.

No. 133—William B. Morris, plaintiff in error, vs. Samuel Shriner et al., in error to the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of Illinois. Mr. Justice Swayne delivered the opinion of the Court, affirming the judgment of the said Circuit Court in this cause, with costs.

No. 136—Albert G. Ewing et al., plaintiff in error, vs. W. H. Howard, in error to the Circuit Court of the United States for the Middle District of Tennessee. Mr. Justice Clifford delivered the opinion of the Court, affirming the judgment of the said Circuit Court in this cause, with costs.

No. 145—Edward A. Blunt, plaintiff in error, vs. Robert Bates, in error to the Supreme Court of Alabama. Mr. Justice Nelson announced the decision of the Court, affirming the judgment of the said Supreme Court in this cause with costs.

No. 134—The United States, ex rel. Henty Amy, plaintiff in error, vs. The Mayor, &c., of the City of Burlington, in error to the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Iowa. Mr. Chief Justice Chase announced the decision of the Court, reversing the judgment of the said Circuit Court, remanding the cause with directions to sustain the demurrer of the relator.

No. 163—Josiah Morris et al., claimants of 120 bales of cotton, appellants, vs. The United States. Appeal from the District Court of the United States for the Middle District of Alabama. Mr. Chief Justice Chase delivered the opinion of the Court, reversing the decree of the said District Court, and remanding the cause for further proceedings in conformity to the opinion of this Court.

No. 218—Frederick S. Blits, plaintiff in error vs. William A. Brown, in error to the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. Mr. Chief Justice Chase delivered the opinion of the Court, dismissing this writ of error for the want of jurisdiction.

No. 303—Andrew B. James, plaintiff in error, vs. The President and Directors of the Bank of Mobile. Mr. Chief Justice Chase delivered the opinion of the Court, denying the motion to dismiss this writ of error.

No. 446—The Washington, Georgetown and Alexandria Railroad Company, appellants, vs. The Mayor, &c., of the City of Washington et al. Mr. Chief Justice Chase delivered the opinion of the Court, overruling the motion to dismiss this appeal and granting the motion for a supercedeas.

No. 107—John McGuire, plaintiff in error, vs. Mary L. Lipler et al. Mr. Chief Justice Chase announced the order of the Court, the motion of Mr. Phillips to modify the decree heretofore ordered, and this cause to stand continued to the first Friday of October next for oral argument.

No. 440—Alex. McDonald et al., plaintiff in error, vs. The United States in error to the District Court for the Western District of Arkansas. On motion of Mr. Ashton, Assistant Attorney-General, ordered that the judgment of the said District Court be reversed.

No. 457—Seymour Stephenson et al., plaintiff in error, vs. Albert Ives et al., in error to the Circuit Court of the United States for the Northern District of Illinois. On motion of Mr. Peck, of counsel for the defendant, ordered by the Court that this writ of error be dismissed with costs.

Adjourned until the first Monday in October next.

ARMY AND NAVY.

Department commanders should make inspections of their troops and posts in person; but when this is impracticable, they can order special inspections to be made in their name and by their authority, or they may nominate any officer from the list of officers awaiting orders, to the Secretary of War, for an acting appointment of Inspector-General, under the provisions of General Orders No. 87 of 1863.

The following order is published:

"Commanding officers of troops occupying the regular forts built by the Engineer Department will permit no photographic or other views of the same to be taken, without the permission of the War Department."

The following general order has just been issued:

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, April 15, 1869.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 37.—The pay districts as heretofore organized are discontinued. Hereafter the officers of pay districts, except those retained for duty at the Paymaster-General's Office, will, like other staff-officers, be assigned to military divisions, departments or districts, and be subject to the order of the commanders thereof.

As necessary to the safe deposit and distribution of the funds, depots of the Pay Department are established at the following points, viz.:

New-York, New-Orleans, St. Louis, San Francisco. Officers assigned to the charge of the depots shall also perform the duties of Chief Paymasters on the staff of the Commanders of the Military Divisions in which their respective depots are located, and will be stationed at the depots not necessarily the division headquarters. Chief Paymasters of military depots and districts will be attached to the department of district headquarters, and, unless otherwise ordered, stationed there. They shall, under the direction of the commanders, have the control of all the Paymasters, and be responsible for the payment of all the troops in their respective departments or districts. The Paymaster-General, in conformity with this order, and the laws and regulations governing the subject, is charged with all necessary instruction to his subordinates in reference to the supply and distribution of funds for the payment of the army, and all other things pertaining to the financial duties of his department and the accountability of its officers. In these and all other matters having relation especially to the internal administration of the Pay Department, the correspondence and orders between the Paymaster-General and his subordinates, and between the Division Department and District Chiefs and their subordinates, will be direct. All other correspondence shall pass through the prescribed military channel for purposes of payment. UNITED STATES SENATE.

Special Session.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Thursday, April 15.

SENATOR ANTHONY IN REPLY TO SENATOR SPRAGUE.

The Senate was called to order at noon, and, after a prayer and the reading of the journal, Mr. ANTHONY, the President pro tem., vacated the chair in favor of Mr. MORRILL, and from his seat on the floor spoke as follows:

Mr. PRESIDENT: Before the Senate proceeds to the regular business of the day, I desire to interpose an act of justice. It will be remembered that, a few days ago, certain persons of respectable standing, private citizens, my constituents, were assailed in this Chamber in an extraordinary manner—considering that the assault was made by one of their own Senators, I may say an unprecedented manner. I spoke some words in reply in vindication of the honor of Rhode Island, in defence of the sacred memory of the dead and the reputation of the living men, among them those to whom I have referred. This assault was not confined to those vague generalities which it is difficult to answer, because it is almost impossible to define. It contained, at least, one specific, positive, definite allegation, that the persons accused had proposed to enter upon a conspiracy for enriching themselves at the expense of their fellow-citizens, for arranging their business in such a manner as to insure and enlarge their own property, breaking the others engaged in the same business—a charge which, although defining nothing prohibited by statute, is so abhorrent to all sense of fairness, so damaging to honest reputation, as not to be lightly made, and never to be credited, except on ample proof or open confession. A charge made in this Chamber has a peculiar significance and a peculiar effect. It does not die upon the air with the breath that utters it. It is placed upon record; it is spread upon the pages of the Congressional Globe. It passed into history. The Senate has high privileges; privileges essential to its dignity and its inviolability; privileges guaranteed by the Constitution, that are acknowledged and respected by the people, and that are sometimes liable to abuse upon the floor. And others, not entitled to seats in this Chamber, have privileges which, although not definite by statute, are protected by the enduring principles of justice, which are the unwritten law of honorable men. And one of the privileges is that when their names are brought into the Chamber without offence or agency or crime of their own, covered with obloquy, they should have a hearing in the same presence, and their defence should enjoy the same publicity and have the same enduring record. I ask the Secretary to read the card which I send to the desk.

The Secretary read the card of Messrs. BROWN and IVES, published in the NEW-YORK TIMES of April 14.

Mr. ANTHONY resumed as follows:

My purpose has been accomplished. I have placed in the Congressional Globe the denial by the side of the accusation. I have done this without the request or the knowledge of the persons who have signed the statement that has just been read. I would, under the same circumstances, have done it for the humblest of my constituents. Indeed, to a generous mind, it is more pleasant to defend the poor and the lowly, who are unable to defend themselves, than the rich and powerful who in some way or another can vindicate their own wrongs. But to honest men, whether rich or poor, there is one possession dearer than any other, and that is honor. No right-minded man is indifferent to the judgment of his fellow-men, and although the consciousness of right will sustain a man under the imputation of wrong, even that will not take the sting from slander, nor make him careless of unanswered calumny. I have done this as a Rhode Island Senator, speaking in defence of Rhode Island men unjustly assailed on the floor, where they cannot speak for themselves, and where they, and all others in the constituency to which they belong, have a right to expect that I should speak for them.

The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of Executive business, and, at 4:30, adjourned.

HAVANA, Thursday, April 15.

JUSTO AGUILERA, President of the Revolutionary Junta at Holguin, was captured and executed on the 6th inst. at Jibara.

DOMINION OF CANADA.

Opening of the Parliament—Address of the Governor-General.

OTTAWA, Thursday, April 15.

To-day, at 3 o'clock P. M., his Excellency the Governor-General opened the second session of the First Parliament of the Dominion of Canada with the following speech:

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate—Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I have great satisfaction in having recourse to your advice; and I rejoice to think that on this, the first occasion on which I have had the honor of addressing you, we may congratulate ourselves on the aspect of public affairs at home and abroad, on the prevalence of peaceful counsels among the nations, and on the indications of agreement and tranquillity, favorable alike to the development of foreign commerce and the prosecution of domestic industry.

The great scheme, confederation, was inaugurated under the auspices of my predecessor. It is to me a source of pride to find my name in honorable association with the rising fortunes of the Dominion of Canada; and I shall count it a happiness, as well as a duty, to coöperate to the utmost of my ability in furthering the efforts to strengthen the ties that bind the different Provinces together, and to insure an attachment of the people to the soil by the enactment of wise and equal laws. Your efforts in these directions seem now more than ever likely to be called into action, inasmuch as the terms upon which these great accessions are offered to the Dominion will be submitted for your immediate consideration.

His Excellency then referred to the fact that the Hudson's Bay Company has accepted the terms proposed for the surrender of their rights in the Northwest Territory, and commended the subject to the immediate consideration of Parliament.

He continued as follows: I was much gratified by the communications from the Governor of Newfoundland, expressing the desire for admission into the Union which prevails among the inhabitants of that Colony, and especially by his dispatch of the 20th of March last covering copies of the resolutions which have been passed by the Council and Assembly, and which set forth the conditions they consider it desirable to advance. These documents shall be furnished at once for the information of Parliament, and I hope that before the close of the session I may be in position to submit the details of a provisional arrangement for your consideration. It will be a pleasure to me, as well as a subject of general congratulation, if, at some early day, the fine Colony of Newfoundland—unrivaled as a nursery of hardy seamen and inexhaustible in its wealth of fisheries—becomes a part of the Dominion.

In accordance with the suggestions of Her Majesty's Government, an earnest attempt has been made to allay the discontent unhappily existing in Nova Scotia.

In continuance of the course commenced last session, bills will be presented to you for the assimilation of the criminal laws existing in the several Provinces. Among other measures, bills will be presented to you for the establishment of uniform and amended laws respecting parliamentary elections, bankruptcy and insolvency, and patents of invention and discovery.

Grievances of the Lake Sailors.

CHICAGO, Thursday, April 15.

A large meeting of Lake sailors was held in this city last evening, the object being to form a union for the protection of their interests. Several speeches were made in support of the movement, when the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The seamen of the entire chain of lakes have each succeeding season observed, with dissatisfaction, the conduct of captains and shipowners in discharging them in strange ports on any slight pretext, when shipping from Chicago or elsewhere, and so depriving them of a fair chance of making an honest livelihood; and,

Whereas, Seamen are shut out from legitimate occupation during the five Winter months, thus depriving their families of support during that time, in which they are unemployed, because they are not paid enough during the active season to supply the means of living through the dull one; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the seamen of Chicago, pledge ourselves to work in union with the Seaman's Union Benevolent Association of this city, as we believe it to be the champion of our rights and vigilant in the protection of our interests.

Over 400 members then enrolled themselves.

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this meeting the establishment of grades and the selections of standards of extra superfine are desirable; that whenever the parties to the trade so desire, the flour shall be inspected as sound, of full weight, and equal to such standards, if it can be accomplished without interfering with the present general custom of inspection and trade.

Railroad Matters in North Carolina.

The amended charter, allowing the State an interest in the Wilmington, Charlotte and Rutherford Railroad, to be paid for [illegible] to the extent of $4,000,000, was accepted by the stockholders to-day by a large majority. THE NORTHERN LIGHTS.

Grand Display Over the City—The Aurora as Seen in Other Parts of the Country.

Last night the northern and northwestern portion of the heavens were lit up by a magnificent display of the Northern Lights, which flashed and paled and flashed again and assumed the most fantastic shapes. On the previous nights many brilliant meteors were seen passing across the sky from east to west.

PHILADELPHIA, Thursday, April 15.

Remarkable Auroral displays occurred to-night, the greatest since the electric storm of 1859. Broad bands of red and green light, reaching from the east to the western horizon, and as far south as the eye could reach, suddenly changed into knots overhead, which sent forth broad rays in every direction. During its continuance the Western Union Telegraph Company worked its lines from this city to the western part of the State without the use of a battery at either end.

RICHMOND, Va., Thursday, April 15.

About 8 o'clock this evening a belt of white, apparently about six feet in width, shone across the sky, extending from east to west, and drifted northward, crossing, and to some extent obscuring the moon, and finally gathered, as a fan closes, and disappeared. The Aurora Borealis is now visible in the northern horizon. The people generally turned out to witness the phenomenon.

We have had frosts for the last three nights.

LOUISVILLE, Thursday, April 15.

Between the hours of 7:30 and 10 o'clock this evening the Northern Lights were slightly visible; but the effect upon the telegraph wires was hardly perceptible.

BALTIMORE, Thursday, April 15.

The entire northern hemisphere from east to west to the zenith has been illuminated by an unusual display of the aurora to-night. The flashes have been continuous for several hours. At this hour—11 o'clock—the light has nearly disappeared.

INDIANAPOLIS, Thursday, April 15.

The aurora borealis was seen here at about 8 o'clock. It was of a whitish color, and appeared like clouds rent by the winds. A beautiful bow was formed in the south. At 9 o'clock the sky again lightened, first in the northwest, then veering around to the east, darting out huge sheens of light, which turned red and then faded away, when they would again burst forth. It lasted about an hour and a half.

PITTSBURG, Thursday, April 15.

The wires at this point were seriously affected at times during the evening by auroral currents, although no phenomenon was visible in the heavens.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE.

ANOTHER BOUNTY SWINDLER.

A number of affidavits were made yesterday against Frederic B. Swift, of No. 234 Broadway, alleging that he has defrauded soldiers of part of their bounty. His method of operating was to ascertain from Colonel Herman's clerk when claims had been paid, then he sent a notice to the soldier to call at his office; the soldier called, was informed that the claim had not been paid, and that there would be considerable delay in obtaining the money, and was then offered a certain sum down for the claim, usually about 50 per cent. Having bought the soldier off, Mr. Swift proceeded to make Herman hand over the whole amount. He is also accused of swindling women out of pensions, and of other like tricks.

THE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD LITIGATION.

PROCEEDINGS BEFORE THE REFEREE.

Tweed, Receiver, vs. H. C. Crane and the Corn Exchange Bank.—This case came on for reference before A. A. Redfield, Esq., yesterday afternoon, Mr. D. D. Field appearing for plaintiff and Messrs. Clark, Bell and Charles Tracy as attorneys for Mr. Crane and the Corn Exchange Bank respectively. Among the lookers on were Messrs. Durant and James Fisk, Jr.

Mr. E. W. Dunham was sworn and examined by Mr. D. D. Field. He testified as follows: I am the President of the Corn Exchange Bank; Mr. Crane has an account there; the amount now to his credit is $1,270 17, after paying this morning a check for $2,500 on the order of the plaintiff's attorney and the Court; the balance at the time of the injunction was $3,770 17; Mr. Crane has no other account with us, and has had no other within the last month.

(A question propounded to the witness as to the Union Pacific Railroad Company having an account with the Corn Exchange Bank, was objected to by the defendant's counsel, and the objection was sustained by the referee. A question as to that company having any property in the bank was objected to, but the objection was overruled, each of the defendants excepting.)

To my knowledge the Union Pacific Railroad Company has no property in the bank; if making deposits in a bank be a loan Mr. Crane has lent money to the bank, otherwise not; he has no bonds in our custody against which he draws checks, nor does he draw checks against any bonds of the Union Pacific Railroad Company deposited there, and the bank has no security against his drafts beyond the deposits he makes, nor does he overdraw his account, to my knowledge; I have no recollection of the amount of his deposits and checks during the last three months; such amount would be shown by the books of the bank; the ledger would give every necessary information, but the transactions with Mr. Crane with our bank are entered in the credit cash book, and the amount of his checks in the debit cash book, both of which are posted in the ledger; I do not know when his bank account was last balanced, although I looked at it today in order to ascertain the exact balance.

A lengthy objection was here taken by Mr. Tracy to a question by Mr. Field, "will you produce the books of the Corn Exchange Bank," said objection being sustained by the referee.

Mr Crane's account with our bank has been running between eleven and twelve years; I know nothing of the relations existing between him and the Union Pacific Railroad Company; I do not know whether Mr. Crane ever transacted business for that Company, nor did I ever know of his doing so; I have never been spoken to by any officer of the Union Pacific Railroad Company on Mr. Crane's account, to my knowledge; I know Thomas C. Durant, and to my recollection he has never spoken to me on this subject, and he has never given me any instructions to pay any check or checks drawn by Mr. Crane against this account; the cashier of the bank can give no more information than I on these subjects; I cannot tell or form any estimate from my opinion how much the total of Mr. Crane's deposits in our bank since January last amounts to, but I should say that it did not amount to so much as $100,000; I have had no conversation that I know of with Mr. Crane himself about this account; I have no information or knowledge that the moneys deposited by Mr. Crane are other than his own; when I made my affidavit on Tuesday respecting moneys paid by Crane into the bank, I meant to convey the idea that when a man brings money to deposit his possession of it exhibits his right.

Some sharp cross-firing here took place between Messrs. Field and Tracy on a question propounded by the former to the witness on the affidavit made by him on Tuesday, the objection thereto being overruled by the referee. I cannot say that I had any knowledge as to my affidavit being intended to convey any impression other than that I had no knowledge or information respecting the moneys deposited by Mr. Crane, except their being his own.

Mr. Dunham's examination was here adjourned to allow of an examination being made of the books of the Corn Exchange Bank.

Mr. H. C. Crane sworn and examined by Mr. Field—I have not my bank pass-book with me; it is in my safe at No. 20 Nassau-street, of which I have the key; I have not been subpœnaed to produce it; I have a check book in my safe, and have not been subpœnaed to produce it; I have no other book relating in any manner to the account between me and the Corn Exchange Bank, and none showing where the money comes from which I deposit except the margin of my check-book; the only position I hold in the Union Pacific Railroad Company is that of a director, and I have never held any other office in it; my office is at No. 20 Nassau-street, in the offices of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, where I transact my private business; I have been Assistant Secretary and Assistant Treasurer to the Credit Mobilier prior to 1867; I have had nothing to do with them for two years this Spring; I have received checks as Assistant Treasurer from the Union Pacific Railroad Company within the last three months.

Q.—Who are you Assistant Treasurer for? A.—I am Assistant Treasurer for the assignees of a contract on the Union Pacific Railroad.

Q.—Who were these assignees? A.—Oliver Ames, T. C. Durant, John Duff, H. S. McComb, C. S. Bushnell, Benjamin E. Bates and Sidney Dillon.

The inquiry was adjourned till to-day.

SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM—APRIL 15.

Before Presiding Justice Clerke and Justices Ingraham and Peckham.

THE CALIFORNIA QUICKSILVER MINING COMPANY.

Henry A. Taylor et al., Respondents, vs. The Quicksilver Mining Company, Appellant.—This action was brought to establish, first, the plaintiffs' right as cestui que trust to a share in the rents and profits of certain lands, mines, &c., known as the "Rancho de los Capitancillos," situated in California, to the extent of fifty-six four-hundredths, or fourteen per cent. thereof. Second, for an accounting of the rents and profits; and third, for the payment to the plaintiff of such portion as shall be found due to him on such accounting. In October, 1847, John B. Gray, of Fredericksburg, Va., and Knowles Taylor, then of this City, both since deceased, entered into an agreement in writing, by the terms of which Gray should at once proceed to Upper California and invest certain funds in the purchase of a tract of land, and especially in a mine of the ore of mercury or cinnabar, lying on the Peninsula bounded by San Francisco Bay and the Pacific Ocean, then said to be the property of one Richardson and supposed to contain about 30,000 acres. In pursuance of this agreement Gray went to California, and in the Spring of 1848 entered into an agreement with one Grove C. Cook, who describes himself as allodial owner of the "Rancho de los Capitancillos," whereby Cook covenanted with Gray to make out a complete title, in fee simple, to Gray, of all the mines &c. then known or that might thereafter be found on on the rancho. The consideration to be paid was $5,000, and five per cent. of the minerals taken out. The deed was given and subsequently several other deeds, (some of them trust deeds,) were executed. Among others there is a deed by Taylor and wife, and Gray and wife, of these premises to Taylor, Gray, and Robert J. Walker, as trustees, to hold the premises as joint tenants. The property was represented by four hundred shades, of which R. J. Walker was declared to be the owner of seventy. In June, 1860, Walker conveyed certain rights and interests in the premises to Messrs. Tyler, Bond and Townsend, as trustees of the California Quicksilver Mining Association, and in November following he conveyed to Messrs. Cullen, Tucker and Deslonde certain other rights and interests in the premises. It is contended that this last conveyance disposed of all of Walker's interest.

The defendants demurred to the complaint on three distinct grounds. First, that this Court has no jurisdiction of the case; secondly, the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action; and thirdly, that there is a defect of parties. In other words, that Robert J. Walker should have been joined in the action as a party defendant. The plaintiff claims that the defendants have never purchased the trust estate, the legal title to which still remains in Walker.

The case was fully argued on the demurrer, some time since, at Special Term. That Court decided that the complaint was good as against all the objections taken by the defendants. Thereupon an appeal was taken to the General Term by the defendants. This Court has reserved its decision.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM—APRIL 15.

Before Judge Barnard.

THE CHRISTY WILL LITIGATION—A FORGERY OF JUDGE BARNARD'S SIGNATURE.

Breck vs. Charles Kessler Smith and Harriet E. Christy.—The trial of this case was resumed this morning. Mr. C. Bainbridge Smith was examined and cross-examined at great length. Among other things, he testified that a suit was commenced against C. K. Smith by Mr. John B. Haskin; the suit was brought to restrain Smith from parting with a $10,000 mortgage, and an injunction was granted by Judge BARNARD.

Judge Barnard—No, I never granted that injunction.

Ex-Judge Emott, of counsel for the defendant, Smith, said, "Well, we will produce the original injunction order signed by your Honor."

Judge Barnard—If you produce any such order with my name to it I will pronounce it a forgery. I never signed the injunction.

Ex-Judge Emott thereupon handed up to the presiding Judge the original injunction order in the suit of Haskin vs. Smith.

Judge BARNARD took the paper, examined it, and pronounced the signature a forgery.

The witness testified that Mr. Haskin afterward withdrew his suit; the mortgage in question was assigned to Mr. Justice Jones of the Superior Court; the sum of $2,500 was paid to Mr. Haskin; of this sum $1,500 were paid to him by the witness, and $1,000 were paid by Mr. Blankman.

Mr. Huntington, counsel for plaintiff, wished to correct a statement made by one of the law reporters to the effect that Mr. Blankman had received from the estate the sum of $21,000. That sum included a large amount of taxes, assessments and other charges on the property, which would reduce the sum received very materially.

The trial will be resumed on Friday morning.

SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM—KINGS COUNTY.

IMPORTANT DECISION AS TO THE LIABILITY OF CARRIERS.

Ely and Sanger vs. The New-Haven Steamboat Company.—This action was brought against the defendants, as common carriers, to recover for the loss of certain leather received by them for transportation from New-Haven to New-York. The plaintiffs were the agents of the tanneries of Homer Ely and Cotton Ely, of Ashleyville, in Massachusetts, the consignors of the property, and sued as their assignees. The leather was delivered at Springfield, Mass., to the Hartford and New-Haven Railroad Company, and by that Company delivered at New-Haven, on the 3d July, 1866, to defendants' steamer Continental, which arrived at her pier in New-York at her usual hour early in the morning of July 4. The cargo of the vessel, including this leather, was all put on the wharf by 8 o'clock, A. M., ready to be taken away by the various consignees, and persons were in attendance during the day to make deliveries of goods. No one called for the leather, and about 2 A. M., of July 5, an accidental fire destroyed the cargo left upon the pier. The leather was marked and addressed, "H. G. Ely & Sanger, No. 2 Jacob-street, New-York." There was no bill of lading or shipping receipt given. The plaintiffs had been in the habit of receiving leather from these tanneries by defendants' line, for some years, as often as once a week, and generally received from the consignors advices by mail of the shipments. The letters advising of the shipments in question were mailed at Ashleyville, where the consignors resided, instead of Springfield, where the goods were put on the cars, and did not reach plaintiffs till after the fire. The plaintiffs kept a cartman, who was in the habit of calling at the pier of defendants, and taking away the leather when it arrived, but he was not on duty at all on the 4th of July. There was some discrepancy in the evidence as to the practice of notifying the consignees, the plaintiff claiming that the defendants had always sent notice of the arrival of goods, and that he then sent his cartman for them; while the defendants claimed that notices were not sent to parties in New-York who were in the habit of sending for their goods, except sometimes at the request of the cartmen and for their convenience, and these notices, when given, were given by Low & Roberts, licensed cartmen in New-York, who had an office on defendants' pier, and who, on the arrival of the boats, received the whole freight list, assorted the cargo and carted such of it as was addressed to parties in the City not in the habit of sending for their goods. Such as was to go to some connecting line they carted, unless it was addressed to the care of other cartmen. Upon these facts the defendants moved to dismiss the complaint, on the ground that their extraordinary liability as carriers had ceased at the time of the fire, and that no negligence had been shown. The Court so held, and the complaint was dismissed and judgment rendered for the defendants, from which the plaintiffs appealed to the General Term, where, after argument, the following opinion was delivered by Justice Gilbert:

It is apparent that the circumstances in which the harsh and rigid rules of the common law governing the liability of common carriers had their origin have greatly changed, and that some amelioration of these rules has became necessary since the introduction of steamboats, railroads and the electric telegraph. Courts have not been unmindful of this necessity, and have gradually modified these rules in accordance with the views of public policy and individual right. The precise nature and extent of this modification, however, is still very uncertain, and it would be a fruitless task to attempt to reconcile the conflicting decisions on this subject. If it were necessary, we should be inclined to hold that, independently of the usage proved in this case, the extraordinary liability of the defendants, as common carriers, ceased when the goods were landed on the wharf and were ready for delivery; that thenceforth they were liable only for ordinary care, and that the law does not require from the class of carriers to which the defendants belong a notice to consignees of the arrival of the goods carried. Such rule we think best accords with sound public policy, and with the intention of the parties in making the contract, and it is sustained by the more judicious of the recent decisions of the Courts on this subject. (Norway Plains Co. vs. Boston, &c., R. R. Co., 1 Gray, 263; Thomas vs. The Same, 10 Met. 472; Lamb vs. West. R. R. Co., 7 Allen, 98; Northrop vs. Syracuse, &c., R. R. Co., Court of Appeals, March, 1867.) But we are of opinion that the evidence clearly establishes a course of business between the parties, in relation to the mode of delivering goods, which must govern the liability of defendants in this case. The plaintiffs had been accustomed for many years to receive goods by the defendants' boats, as often as once a week. These boats arrived in New-York each day at stated hours, morning and evening. Upon the arrival of the boat each trip the goods were landed on the defendants' wharf, and placed in charge of trustworthy persons employed by them to take care of and deliver the goods to the consignees and collect the freight. The plaintiffs always sent their own cartman to the wharf for their goods soon after the arrival of the boat, and there received them from the persons so employed by the defendants. A delivery upon the wharf, therefore, in the usual way, and the lapse of a reasonable time for the plaintiffs to take away or reject the goods terminated the extraordinary liability of the defendants as common carriers, for the reason that their contract had been performed by a carriage of the goods safely to the point of ultimate destination, and a delivery thereof at the appointed place of delivery. After these acts the defendants must be deemed to have renounced their liability as carriers and assumed that of wharfingers, and they could be held liable only for actual negligence. (Hyde vs. Trent. Nav. Co., 5 T. R. 397, per Buller, J.; Gatliffe vs. Bowne, 4 Bing., N. C. 314, S. C.; 1 Scott N. R. 1, and 8 Id. 604; Abb. on shipping, 5 A. M., Ed. 463; Gibson vs. Culver, 17 Wend. 305; Gould vs. Chapin, 20 N. Y. R. 259, per Strong, J.; Hathorn vs. Ely, 28 Id. 78.) It is not contended by the plaintiffs that there was any negligence on the part of the defendants. It is, however, urged by the learned counsel for the plaintiffs, that the defendants' liability as common carriers continued until after the loss of the goods, because, according to the course of business referred to, a notice should have been given to the plaintiffs of the arrival of the goods. As before intimated, where the contract in terms, or as affected by the usage of trade, is to deliver the goods at the warf, notice is not necessary. It is not itself an act of delivery, or equivalent, or even akin to it. It is a substitute for it, arbitrarily created. There was, perhaps, enough evidence that the duty of sending a notice to the plaintiffs' store of the arrival of their goods formed a part of the usage in this case, to require the submission of that question to the jury, if it had been material to the determination of the case. But we are of opinion that if the fact were so, the plaintiffs' store having been closed the whole of the day on which the goods arrived, and until after the goods had been destroyed, the defendants were excused from giving the notice. Absence of the consignee dispenses with notice. (Fisk vs. Newton, 1 Den. 45; Northrup vs. Syracuse Railroad Company, Supra.) The defendants were under no obligation to go beyond the usage alleged, and seek the plaintiffs elsewhere than at their store. The 4th of July was not a holiday in any sense which affects this case. The judgment should be affirmed.

Jesse C. Smith for plaintiffs; S. P. Nash for defendants.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM—APRIL 15.

Before Judge McCunn.

HABEAS CORPUS—"THE BITER BITTEN."

In the matter of the application of Philip Appel to be discharged from arrest under writ of habeas corpus. After the adjournment of Part II. this application for discharge came up for final hearing. Mr. James F. Morgan, of the firm of Morgan & Haurahan, and Mr. Landsman, appeared for the petitioner, and Mr. Todd for the complainant. It appeared that owing to the circumstances of the arrest developed on yesterday in the return of the writ being so clearly favorable to the prisoner, his counsel, anticipating his discharge, had entered a civil action against the complainant and others concerned in the arrest, for false imprisonment, and had obtained an order of arrest. Some of the parties, probably having some mental impression of the danger awaiting them, failed to make their appearance in Court, but the Sheriff's officers were in hot pursuit, and the probabilities are that last night they were enjoying the hospitalities of Ludlow-street jail. Judge MCCUNN, in discharging the prisoner, delivered the following opinion, which sets forth very fully the facts surrounding the case:

This prisoner is brought before me upon a writ of habeas corpus, and his discharge is demanded on the ground that, taking all that the complainant alleges in his affidavit and warrant to be true in fact, yet in law no crime has been committed. The facts as developed before me are as follows: In September last the prisoner said to complainant, "Let us go in partnership together in the buying and selling of hops;" that he had no doubt money could be made out of them: besides, he would guarantee that fact; he also said that his brother and he were worth in notes of brewers $30,000, and that they were perfectly good. Upon this statement the prisoner and complainant entered into copartnership together as equal partners under the firm name of Parson & Appel, and bought large quantities of hops upon the joint account, for which the prisoner paid of his own individual money one-half in cash, and signed and gave in the presence of the complainant the notes of the firm for the other half. The goods thus bought were taken possession of by the firm, and more especially by the complainant, and were refixed and then shipped to New-York and sold there by the prisoner's brother for and on account of the firm, and the proceeds forwarded to the firm of Parson & Appel. This has been going on from September last until within a few days. Some difficulty has arisen between the parties and their creditors and also between the individual partners of the firm of Parson & Appel.

Upon the above state of facts the complainant Parson made application to a country Justice of the Peace for a warrant for the prisoner, Appel, and obtained the same, upon which he was arrested by the Sheriff of Madison County, and was about to be taken thence, when the process of this Court prevented them, and demanded that before the prisoner should be sent to a distant part of the State away from friends an investigation into his conduct should take place, so that his liberty should not be jeopardized if he had acted honestly in the business. During the whole course of my judicial life, both as a criminal Magistrate and as a civil Judge, I have never witnessed a case in which the innocence of a prisoner has been so clearly established as in this, and that, too, upon the proof of the complainant alone. The charge is that the prisoner induced the complainant to enter into copartnership with him by false representations, and then, when a partnership was formed, notes were made which rendered the complainant liable. I am certainly at a loss to see where the false representations are in the complainant's testimony. His statement, under oath, is that the prisoner said he was in the employment of his brother in New-York. It also shows that he simply said money could be made out of the transaction, and beyond this I can perceive no representations. Indeed, it is quite clear that all the prisoner agreed to do, he has faithfully done and performed. He has paid for one-half of all the purchases in cash out of his own funds, his brother sold the goods and the proceeds thereof were transmitted to complainant, his partner—where then is there any dereliction on the part of the prisoner? Indeed, if there is any want of the performance of duty on the part of either of the partners of the firm of Parson & Appel, it is upon the part of Parson, who neglected to pay his half of the goods, because he, Parson, testifies that Appel paid of his own money one-half of all purchases. Instead, therefore, of sending the prisoner to Madison County to be tried before a Justice of the Peace, I shall discharge him from arrest, and in doing so I take the opportunity to characterize the arrest upon this warrant as one of a most unwarrantable and unjustifiable kind. I will also remark that it is my belief that the complainant who prompted this arrest, the Squire who granted the warrant, and all others concerned in arresting this man Appel, are responsible to him for the unlawful acts upon his person.

CITY COURT—BROOKLYN.

Before Judge Thompson.

SUIT AGAINST A SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Penfield vs. Blackwell.—Plaintiff, who is a lithographer, brought this suit to recover $130, the value of a Sunday School Missionary Association certificate of membership, which he alleged defendant had ordered him to have made. Defendant, Treasurer of the Association belonging to the Clermont-avenue Reformed Church, of which Rev. Mr. Enyard is pastor, claimed that he was instructed to get up the certificate, but witnesses on the part of the Association denied that he had been so authorized, and took the ground that the likenesses on the certificate were bad anyway, and that if the gown were taken from the picture of the pastor he would look like John C. Heenan, the "Benecia Boy." The jury awarded a verdict for the plaintiff for the full amount.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—BROOKLYN.

Before Judge Barnard.

RAILROAD INJURIES.

Margaret Wallace vs. The Central Park, North and East River Belt Railroad Company.—In October, 1867, plaintiff was a passenger on one of the cars of defendants, and she alleges that through mismanagement she fell and sustained injuries which, in the attendance of physician and others, cost her in all about $2,000. Defendants claim that they never heard of the injuries to plaintiff until this suit was brought, and that such injuries must have been caused by her own carelessness. The jury were out when the Court adjourned, and were instructed to prepare a sealed verdict.

John M. Flynn for plaintiff; Brown, Hall & Vanderpoel, and Judge Reynolds for defendants.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Judge Bedford.

LARCENIES.

John Clayton Miller, a colored boy about 18 years old, was indicted for grand larceny for stealing an overcoat and gloves from the hall of Miss Armstrong's school, in Twenty-first-street, on the 23d of March. The overcoat was the property of Mr. John Rutner, a teacher in the school, Catherine ——, a maid in the house, was in the hall from the time Mr. Rutner came in until he missed the coat, and she swore that no one entered the hall except John Miller. Mr. White, the prisoner's counsel, after cross-examining Mr. Rutner as to the price of the coat, its age, the price of the gloves, their color and age, the price of the handkerchief, the number of times it had been used, &c., succeeded in demonstrating that the theft was a petit larceny. And so the jury decided. The sentence was six months in the Penitentiary.

A PICKPOCKET.

Daniel McDonald, a pickpocket 16 years old, pleaded guilty, and was sent to the House of Refuge till he should be twenty-one years old.

THURSDAY, April 15—P. M.

The Custom-house returns of the Foreign Trade at New-York for the month of March have just been rendered. The figures are given below, together with a summary of the Foreign Trade at this port for nine months of the Fiscal Year, in comparison with the previous Year.

The Import Entries for March, 1869, at New-York, compare as follows with the corresponding month of the previous year, viz.:

	March, 1869.	March, 1868.
Dutiable goods, direct	$17,890,058	$11,999,520
Dutiable, bonded	13,428,973	12,391,956
Free goods	1,702,591	821,682
Total March entries	$33,021,622	$25,213,158

There was also entered during the month Foreign Specie of the value of $1,771,668, against $1,299,776 same month last year.

The value of Foreign Merchandise of previous importation withdrawn from bond, $9,661,447, $3,766,526 less than went into bond during the month, so that the amount of merchandise actually marketed during the month, dutiable and free, is $29,254,096, on which the Gold Customs collected amount to $13,027,672, or at an average rate of duty on all the marketed imports (including free articles) of 45½ ₽ cent. The amount marketed in March, 1868, was $23,117,326, and the Customs $11,195,861.

The comparative value of Foreign Goods entered at the Port of New-York, and of Foreign Goods actually marketed during the nine months of the fiscal years 1869 and 1868, were as follows

	1868-9. July 1 to March 31.	1867-8. July 1 to March 31.
Total entries	$199,793,880	$175,220,056
Total marketed	$199,716,414*	$174,574,201*
Customs paid	92,486,159	82,757,343
Average tariff	46¼ ₽ cent.	47¾ ₽ cent.

* Of which, Free Goods in 1869, $10,946,743, and Free Goods in 1868, $7,387,245.

In addition to the above there was entered of Foreign Specie during the nine months $6,922,190, against $3,601,868 last year.

The sales of Gold to-day were generally at 132½ ₽ cent., being ¼ ₽ cent. lower than the last price of Wednesday night. The market was steady and without much excitement, either in respect to the political influences likely to advance speculation or to the supply of the Cash Gold. The latter is reasonably easy. The steamer Java delivered the further sum of $400,000 American Coin to Messrs. L. VON HOFFMAN & Co. to-day from London, which went into the Treasury Office in exchange for Gold Certificates. The use of these Certificates, or Gold Notes, as they are usually termed, is now more generally preferred in all dealings in Gold, to Checks for Gold on the City Banks, and the result is likely to be that soon the whole Gold Coin of the country will concentrate, by deposit, in the United States Treasury, and Gold Notes, for the greater convenience in business, be taken out instead. The Banks themselves, as a rule, prefer these Notes to the care of the Gold itself.

The drawers of Foreign Exchange were ¼ ₽ cent. stiffer in their rates on London than yesterday, owing to the easier appearance of the Money market, and the terms on the business of the day were 107¾@108 ₽ cent. for 60 days, and 108¾@108⅝ for short sight. The actual transactions in Bills were not large, but it is believed that most of the settlements of credits between the Bankers and Importers, for the middle of the month, were made at 108 ₽ cent.

The Brokers were accommodated with Money on call at from 7 ₽ cent. per annum, in Gold, to 7 ₽ cent. simple Currency Interest. The higher rate (equal to 10 ₽ cent. Currency) prevailed through the forenoon; but, after 2 o'clock, there was considerable business done at 7 ₽ cent. Currency, with more decided signs of ease than at any time during the week.

Less than $100,000 May Coupons on United States 5-20s were presented for prepayment at the Treasury to-day. The Office took in $419,000 in Gold for Customs. The notice for the prepayment of the July Interest is now official, but it seems to relate at present only to the Coupon Interest. The attention of the Secretary of the Treasury has been called to the propriety (and fairness to the holders of Registered Stocks) of closing the transfer books for the July Interest on the 30th inst. in place of the 31st May. We have no doubt that the Secretary, under this arrangement, would find a larger number of the holders of Registered Stocks disposed to discount their Interest, than of the holders of Coupon Bonds.

The Public Funds manifested increased buoyancy in prices, and were in large demand to-day, especially the 5-20s of 1867, July and January Interest, and the old 5-20s of 1865, May and November Interest. The Currency 6 ₽ cents were also active, the 10-40s ¼ ₽ cent. higher, and nearly all the Gold-bearing 5-20s and the 6 ₽ cents of 1881 in demand at full rates. The State Bonds were firm for new Tennessees, and active for new North Carolinas, but a fraction lower for Missouris. The Miscellaneous Shares advanced to 38¼ for Mariposa Preferred, and to 62½ for Canton Land Company. Pacific Mail quiet at about 92@92½ ₽ cent.

The Railway market opened somewhat dull early this morning, but soon there was a stir in Rock Island, which carried the Stock up to 138¼ ₽ cent., ex dividend, and also a pretty free demand for New-York Central, the St. Paul Stocks, Michigan Southern and Lake Shore, and at the late Boards the general temper of the speculation was firm, with the single exception of Northwest Common, which went down, unexpectedly to 82⅝ ₽ cent. The cause of weakness is said to be some uncertainty as to the nature of the half-yearly June Dividend, about which, we imagine, nothing has yet officially transpired from the Office of the Company.

After the late Boards broke up the following quotations were made as compared with Wednesday night. The Public Funds left off firm; Gold steady; Exchange firm; Money, comparatively, in free supply.

The London Times of April 1 gives the following explanation of the causes which induced the Bank of England to advance the rate of Interest to 4 ₽ cent.:

"The Directors of the Bank of England have to-day made an advance of 1 ₽ cent. in their rate of discount, which has been raised from 3 ₽ cent., at which it was fixed on the 3d of December last, to 4 ₽ cent.

Although it was anticipated that the return to be published this evening would prove unfavorable, such as under ordinary circumstances would necessitate an advance in the rate, an impression prevailed that, looking to certain exceptional features of the present accounts, and to the facts that the commercial requirements throughout the Kingdom are light, that the state of affairs in Lancashire is likely to diminish even the existing demand; that the payment of the dividends will commence within a week; that there is a heavy amount of gold due from Australia, and that the remittances from America for coupons of the United States debt may, during the next month, counterbalance the investments from this side, the symptoms now observable would not be considered to possess enough probability of duration to induce a change so material. The pressure of the last two days for gold on American account has indicated, however, that the movement is in accordance with the actual condition of the market, and the true course is to act upon this indication and not to speculate upon the question of permanence, since the step can be retraced at any moment. Such are the facilities for borrowing money here on United States bonds that the London and New-York markets are brought into intimate and, by the aid of the telegraph, instantaneous connection, and there can be no doubt that any stringency on the other side is, under these circumstances, certain to manifest itself in an almost equal degree in London, unless measures be promptly adopted to check the possibility of our floating capital being drained away without limit. In the face of such a contingency hesitation would be a serious evil. For many weeks past, apprehensions have been expressed by some of the most sound American authorities on matters of finance that a degree of inflation is prevalent in New-York which has been upheld solely through the means obtained by sending United States bonds to Europe. So far as these consignments may be but a response to the demands of investors, they are not calculated to provoke any abnormal action calling for special and sudden attention; but if to any extent they assume that form of banking transactions which consists in obtaining loans on the deposit of securities, it becomes imperative upon us to guard our resources if we would avoid being involved in the impending difficulty which it may be the object of these transactions to retard, but which in the end they must inevitably aggravate."

NAVAL STORES—There has been less call for Spirits Turpentine, which has been quoted rather easier for buyers, as regards price, though the leading holders have been comparatively firm in their views. Merchantable lots have been wanted at 49½c., but not offered, as a rule, under 50c. ₽ gallon. Small lots were disposed of at the lower rate, in all about 170 bbls. Nothing really new in Crude Turpentine. Tar has been held more confidently, but has been inactive. Resins have been in moderate request and very firm in price; holders generally looking for an early improvement in values. Strained Resin was wanted by shippers, and was quoted steady at $2 50 ₽ 280 lbs., at which 1,209 bbls. were disposed of. A sale of 250 bbls. No. 2 Resin was reported at $2 58 ₽ 280 lbs. In the finer grades the trade was of a jobbing nature. We quote: Spirits Turpetine at 49½c.@51½c., chiefly at 45½c.@50c. for merchantable, and 50½c. for shipping lots, ₽ gallon; Crude at $4 25; Resin at $2 45@$10 ₽ 280 lbs., the latter rate for Choice W. PETROLEUM—Trade was impeded by the meeting, and the consequent discussions, relative to the change of the hour of holding the daily business session at the Merchants' Exchange, Pine-street, to from noon to 1 o'clock P. M., instead of from 2 to 3 o'clock P. M., as heretofore. The majority vote of the home-dealers determined the question, while the shippers generally complained that the hour decided on for the daily meeting would prove a most inconvenient one for them, particularly for such of them as are interested in the breadstuff and provision trade. This latter class of operators are now obliged to attend the Produce Exchange regularly every business day from about noon to about 1:30 P. M. It is very obvious that such a conflict of views, where there should be harmony, cannot prove otherwise than injurious to each interest involved. A Committee was appointed to give effect to the decision of to-day's meeting, at which Mr. ISAAC L. HEWITT, of the firm of HEWITT & SCOFIELD, presided. The committee consisted of Messrs. ALBERT G. BUNKER, ABIEL WOOD and WM. J. IVES....In Crude Oil, in bulk, no important transactions were reported; there were bids of 17c., while holders were asking 17¼c. ₽ gallon. No new movement transpired in barreled Crude, which was quoted at from 22c.@ 22½c. ₽ gallon. Refined was in brisk request, almost wholly for forward delivery at somewhat firmer prices. Sales were reported here of 270 bbls. Light Straw to White at 31c.; 500 bbls. Standard White, for each of the four months from April to July, inclusive, at 32c., 33c., 34c., and 35c. respectively; 1,000 bbls. do., for May delivery, at 33¼c.; 1,000 bbls. do., for June delivery, at 34½c.; 2,000 bbls. for May and June delivery, on the basis of the same rates as the two preceding lots; and 1,500 bbls. do., for each of the months of May and June, at equal to 33½c. per gallon. Also at Philadelphia, 2,000 bbls. Standard White, for April delivery, at 32½c.; 1,000 bbls. do., for May delivery, at 33½c.; 2,000 bbls. do., June, at 34½c., and 500 bbls. do., sellers' option, May and June, at 33½c. ₽ gallon. Other sales were rumored, but we could not trace them. Standard White here was wanted at 32c., but could not be easily bought at less than 32½c. ₽ gallon. The receipts of Oil here to-day were 1,800 bbls. Refined; at Philadelphia, 1,750 bbls. Refined and 550 bbls. Crude.

POTATOES, &c.—Potatoes are more active, but prices show no improvement, as the fresh arrivals keep the stock well up. Some new Bermudas are offering at $12@$13 ₽ bbl. Green Peas and Tomatoes are more plenty and lower. We quote: Potatoes—Monitor, $1 50; Buckeye, $1 50; Peach Blows, $2 25@ $2 75; Prince Alberts, $2 25@$2 50; Mercers, $2 50@$3; Jackson Whites, $2@$2 25; Delaware Sweet, $5 50@ $6 50; Bermudas, new, $12@$13; Onions, Red, $9@$11; Onions, Yellow, $9@$11; Marrow Squash, $5@$5 50; Russia Turnips, $1 50@$1 75 ₽ bbl.; Green Peas, ₽ crate, $6@$8; Tomatoes, Bermuda, crate, $1 50@$2.

POULTRY AND GAME—The supply of Poultry is lighter. Live sells better than Dressed, although the market is not active for either. Wild Pigeons are very plenty, and are selling low. We quote: Live Poultry—Fowls and Chickens, 18c.@20c.; Turkeys, 22c.@24c. ₽ lb.; Ducks, $1 50@$1 75; Geese, $1 38@ $1 75 ₽ pair. Dressed Poultry—Turkeys, 22c.@26c.; Geese, 12c.@15c.; Ducks, 20c.@28c.; Chickens, 20c.@ 25c. ₽ lb. Game—Ducks, red heads, 60c.@75c.; Ducks, canvas-backs, $1@$1 50 ₽ pair; Wild Pigeons, 88c.@ $1 ₽ dozen.

Sales were also reported of 250 tierces Prime Steam, seller May, on private terms. Beef rules quiet at $11@$16 for Plain Mess; $12@$18 for Extra Mess, and $8@$11 for inferior grades of barreled Mess Beef; sales reported, 115 bbls. Tierce Beef is in active, moderate request, including New Prime Mess at $23 @$28; Indian Mess at $26@$33 ₽ tierce; sales 85 tierces. The new crop of Butter is now fairly in market in sufficient quantities to supply ordinary local wants, while the remains of the old crop is daily shrinking in value to accord with the purposes for which it can yet be used. The past season's trade in Dairy Products in all the markets of the world, has proved to be one of the most remarkable on record. Particularly on account of the unprecedentedly high prices everywhere current, and which have been well sustained until near the close of the season, when a heavy and general decline simultaneously occurred both in Europe and this country. A large portion of the Butter-consuming populations of this country and England have been debarred the use of the article by the prevailing rates, until holders were forced by the appearance of new crop into prices that would admit of general consumption, but which will close the season's trade with severe loss. The great profits that have accrued to farmers engaged in the dairy business have proved to be so much greater than the profits arising from ordinary agricultural products, that general attention has been called thereto, and we are advised by our European correspondents that in the dairy districts of Great Britain, Holland, Belgium and France preparations are completed to furnish a largely increased make of both Butter and Cheese which will compete with our own make in the markets of the world. Canada, also, has demonstrated her powers of production the past season, having supplied the English markets fully until they broke down with the surplus thus furnished, after which a heavy and unlooked-for supply was launched on our own markets sufficient to break them down, and cause great loss to the trade of this City, and we are advised that the present crop will be largely increased over the one just being closed. The dairy business of our own country, also, feels the impetus, and the increase in manufacture must be considerably greater than the ordinary increase in consumption. The inference from these facts is clear and unmistakable, and if dealers take heed in time a serious result may be avoided. If a scale of prices be promptly made for both Butter and Cheese that will invite and retain all classes of consumers, both rich and poor, the only remedy will have been adopted that will absorb the mass of stock and cause a fair paying result, instead of a disastrous crash and a continuous overloaded market. The total receipts for the week are 10,272 packages, the bulk of which is new, and which is three times greater than for the same period of last year. A fair trade in both new and old is in progress at our quotations, but the tendency is toward lower prices. We quote:

Our views on the crop of Butter will, we think, apply directly to that of Cheese, as not only the make of this country will be largely increased but that of other countries in a larger ratio, and their products must necessarily come in direct competition with our own. If these views are correctly based, and we have the highest authority for their truthfulness, the managers of our vast cheese factory interest would be wise in promptly adapting themselves to the altered position, and be satisfied this season with a cheerful acceptation of moderate prices and moderate profits, and then, by furnishing a superior article, which it is conceded they can do, their stock would all be taken when ready for market, and the competitors from other countries would yield the field at the close of the season from inability to make competition profitable. The total receipts of Cheese for the week, ending this day, are 2,510 boxes. There is no new feature to note, the trade being reduced to the supply of actual wants of local and coastwise trade, while the small remaining stock prevents any falling off in price. Our quotations are unchanged.

INDIANAPOLIS AND VINCENNES RAILROAD COMPANY
First Mortgage Forty-year Bonds.
Interest Seven Per Cent. per Annum,
Payable February and August, in the City of New-York. Guaranteed, jointly and severally, by
THE INDIANAPOLIS, CINCINNATI AND LAFAYETTE RAILROAD CO.
THE PITTSBURG, CINCINNATI AND ST. LOUIS RAILWAY CO.
THE COLUMBUS, CHICAGO AND INDIANA CENTRAL RAILWAY CO.;
The latter guarantee being indorsed by the Pennsylvania Central Railroad Co.

Issue restricted to $1,700,000 on the entire road, which is equal to about $15,000 per mile. This road is now approaching its completion; it traverses a rich and populous district in the State of Indiana, and will soon constitute an important link in the Trunk Line, extending from the Atlantic cities to the Southwest, via Cairo.

The intrinsic value of the road itself, combined with the guarantee of four other important railroad companies, one of which ranks financially among the strongest railroad corporations in the world, render these bonds among the safest investments on the market.

We confidently recommend them as a most desirable security for parties investing for themselves or in trust for others.

Also, Shares in the Capital Stock of said Railway Company, on which Six per Cent. per annum and one half the net earnings of the road, in excess of that amount, is guaranteed to the holders in perpetuity by the same railroad corporations.

A limited quantity of these choice securities are offered for sale on favorable terms by

NEWS OF THE DAY.

WEST INDIES.

A very exciting piece of news comes from Havana. The revolutionary chieftain, JUSTO AGUILERA, was captured and executed at Jabara on the 6th. In other respects the revolutionary cause seems to be much depressed, for the Spanish troops are quelling the insurrection in all parts of the island.

Additional revolutionary arrangements have been made for an attack on President BAEZ.

The invasion of St. Domingo is reported.

DOMINION OF CANADA.

The Canadian Parliament was opened yesterday with an address by the Governor-General. His Excellency assured the Parliament of his desire to coöperate in strengthening those ties which bound the different Provinces together. He referred with satisfaction to the acceptance by the Hudson's Bay Company of the terms proposed for the surrender of the Northwest Territory. He expressed his gratification at the fact that Newfoundland was seeking admission to the Union, and trusted that the arrangement would soon be effected.

CONGRESS.

Immediately after the opening of the Senate yesterday, Mr. ANTHONY took occasion to make a formal reply to certain of the statements recently advanced by Mr. SPRAGUE in the course of debate. He said the Senator had plainly accused persons in Rhode Island of entering into a conspiracy to enrich themselves at the expense of their fellow-citizens. Such persons should have a hearing in their own defence, when thus accused upon the floor of the Senate, and he would, therefore, ask the Secretary to read the card of Messrs. BROWN & IVES, already published in the NEW-YORK TIMES. Upon the Secretary reading this document, Mr. ANTHONY added that his purpose was now accomplished, as the reply would appear in the Congressional Globe by the side of the original accusation. He had done this as a Rhode Island Senator, speaking in defence of men unjustly assailed. After this little passage the Senate went into Executive Session. Adjourned at 4:30 P. M.

GENERAL.

The lessee of the National Theatre, Philadelphia, has been non-suited in an action against the gas trustees for non-supply of gas during the strike of the operatives last year.

Judgment has been rendered by the United States District Court of St. Louis against the Ætna Insurance Company of Hartford, in the sum of $34,000.

Miss CAIRNES, who shot and killed her seducer, MCCOMAS, last week, at Jarrettsville, Ind., is still at liberty. Public sentiment is so universally in her favor, that the authorities have not demanded her imprisonment, nor asked security. She still remains at her home, perfectly reconciled and ready for any demand the Sheriff may make. It is said that no jury could possibly be found to convict her, though she owns to a deliberate intention, long premeditated, if the deceased failed to make reparation by marrying her, of taking his life.

The Alabama Claims—Mr. Sumner's Speech.

Mr. SUMNER's speech against the ratification of the Alabama Treaty is much more than an elegant display of rhetoric. It is a luminous and in all respects masterly statement of the grounds on which the national judgment as well as the national feeling has repudiated the terms of the settlement proposed. It is an exposition of the case against Great Britain—of the facts establishing its responsibility, and the nature and extent of the injuries that are to be repaired. The witnesses cited by the Senator are all English; while the inadequacy of the settlement tendered is exemplified by the confessions of England's statesmen and the precedents of its Government. There is nothing absolutely new in the speech. Its strength is in good part derived from the close connection existing between its long series of bristling points and the conclusions arrived at almost unanimously by the American people. It derives further force, however, from the calm and even friendly tone in which the objections to the treaty are presented, and from the array of authority adduced in support of the demand for a treaty as different in spirit as in form, and which shall have the double effect of atoning for great and systematic wrong and laying the foundation of a generous and durable friendship.

The fundamental objection to the Johnson-Clarendon Treaty is that it deals exclusively with individual interests, totally and apparently purposely ignoring the sense of national wrong which should be the basis of negotiation on the subject. It "not merely makes no provision for the determination of the great question," as Mr. SUMNER remarks, "but it seems to provide expressly that it shall never hereafter be presented." Such a treaty is a capitulation—not a settlement; the real cause of discord remaining untouched. The acceptance of the Claims Convention of 1853 as a model reduces the arrangement to an arbitration relating to private losses by blockade-runners and even Confederate cotton bonds, not less than losses by American merchants and shipowners; the overshadowing question of injury and outrage to the nation all the time remaining unnoticed. The treaty, therefore, betrays "an insensibility to the true nature of the difference to be settled;" and in rejecting it the Senate has but echoed the wish of the country.

What, then, is the true nature of the difference which awaits adjustment? To this inquiry Mr. SUMNER offers an elaborate reply. He touches afresh the matter of recognition, and dwells upon the "hottest haste" in which England inflicted its first essential wrong. The recognition of the Confederates as belligerents took place while the American Minister, of whose appointment the English Cabinet had been advised, was on his way; before, therefore, this country had an opportunity of setting forth the character of the contest, or of resisting by argument the unwarranted assumption on which the manifesto of belligerency rested. Besides, as Mr. SUMNER indicates, ocean belligerency, being a fact as distinguished from a principle, presupposes certain conditions, every one of which was in this case wanting. Indeed, at no period of its career did the Confederacy possess the means and appliances which are requisite to constitute a title to naval belligerency. "Unfriendly in the precipitancy with which it was launched, this concession was more unfriendly in substance." It gave rise to that system of piracy which resulted in disastrous depredations on our commerce, in driving the Stars and Stripes from the ocean, and prolonging the existence of the rebellion. English jurists have confessed that but for the concession of belligerency, the fitting out of the rebel privateers would have been piracy, and punishable as such.

It is idle to plead that the proclamation of "a blockade" by President LINCOLN afforded any justification for the act of the British Government. "Had President LINCOLN proclaimed a closing of the rebel ports there could have been no such concession." But the case is too grave and too great to be determined by a technicality. Moreover, the rule is established that blockade does not necessarily constitute a state of regular war. And another rule, first applied by CANNING on the occasion of the Greek revolution, necessitated proof that naval belligerency on the part of the Confederacy actually existed. In the absence of this proof, no special pleading can excuse the recognition volunteered by Great Britain.

Equally futile is the apology which implies that the proclamation was merely a declaration of "neutrality" between two belligerents. The term is in this case inadmissible. It would apply to a contest between two independent Powers, but can have no bearing upon a contest in which one party derives its title to consideration from the proceeding of the professedly neutral Power. The declaration of equality in respect of international rights was, in fact, a declaration against the Government of the United States, which now seeks reparation for the wrong inflicted.

Bad as the case against Great Britain is, speaking only of the beginning of the trouble, it acquired aggravation as time passed on. The unjust concession at the outset was followed by gross negligence in regard to the building and escape of the Alabama, and its subsequent reception of an armament in a British port; a negligence so gross "as to constitute sufferance, if not connivance." "And then again," as Mr. SUMNER shows, "the case reappears in the welcome and hospitality accorded by British cruisers and by the Magistrates of British ports to the pirate ship when her evasion from British jurisdiction was well known." At three stages, then, the British Government was compromised in a manner which makes it impossible for this country to negotiate as though only individual losses are concerned. They are a small element in the account which awaits adjustment.

Even as a matter of material loss, the the United States may require redress. Mr. COBDEN conceded that "cruel losses" were inflicted upon us by the British policy of recognition and so-called neutrality. Apart from the damage done to our mercantile marine, he pointed out that the rest of our vast mercantile property was for the time rendered useless. Mr. W. E. FORSTER, a member of the House of Commons, and other competent witnesses, have testified to the almost incalculable losses from which we have suffered. If the settlement is to take the shape of compensation, these are items which should not be excluded from the account.

But the national sovereignty and the injury it has suffered must also be taken into consideration. How this is to be settled Mr. SUMNER does not distinctly say. He adduces two illustrations, however, which are not without a certain suggestiveness. The first relates to the Leopard and Chesapeake affair, in connection with which CANNING, at the time British Minister of Foreign Affairs, volunteered overtures for an accommodation, and expressed the readiness of his Government "to make reparation for any alleged injury to the sovereignty of the United States, whenever it should be shown that such injury has been actually sustained." The injury referred to affected individuals as well as the United States, and the negotiations initiated by Mr. CANNING ended in adequate reparation to both. The other case cited is that of the Caroline, in 1837, which Mr. WEBSTER made the ground of complaint as "a wrong and offence to the sovereignty and the dignity of the United States." And Lord ASHBURTON, in behalf of the British Government, recognized the affair in the same light, and it was arranged accordingly. Mr. SUMNER would evidently treat these as precedents to be considered in the Alabama case. "As in the earlier cases, where the national sovereignty was insulted, there should be an acknowledgment of wrong, or at least of liability, leaving to the Commissioners the assessment of damages only."

We presume that this requirement will be the starting point of any further negotiation. It is not an unreasonable requirement, in view of the circumstances which attended British recognition and neutrality, and the results to which both led. And it is a requirement which, as the conduct of Mr. CANNING and Lord ASHBURTON in former instances proves, may be complied with by Great Britain without loss to honor or dignity. There can be no dishonor in a frank confession of what most British statesmen now regard as a blunder, aggravated by administrative negligence or inefficiency. There can be no sacrifice of dignity in an offer of reparation for wrong done hastily, but the consequences of which are even now felt by the American people.

The City Republicans.

The two Republican General Committees, known as the Twenty-second and the Twenty-third-street organizations, each of which claims to represent the party, have taken steps, through sub-committees appointed to wait upon Collector GRINNELL, to press upon him their right to urge recommendations for office, and his duty to give them weight. We hope Mr. GRINNELL will refuse to recognize either, or to concede the claims of both, until they will take measures to effect a union, and thus have the Republican Party of the City represented by a single organization. There is no longer the slightest excuse for a division, whatever may have been the case hitherto. There is no longer any division of opinion among Republicans, either as to measures or men. The men elected to office have the support of the whole party, and the measures adopted are accepted as final and to be carried into full effect, without regard to private differences that may have prevailed as to their justice or expediency. The existing division of the party in this City, which led to the organization of two Committees, was mainly personal in its origin, and has contributed largely to the weakening of the party strength. It is time it was ended: and Mr. GRINNELL has it in his power very greatly to aid in bringing about that result. For the sake of the party we hope he will embrace the opportunity.

Governor Hoffman and City Railroads.

Governor HOFFMAN deserves the special gratitude of all classes of our citizens for his message, vetoing the bill for a railroad in One Hundred and Twenty-fifth and other streets of this City. Not merely because it prevents the consummation of the wrong inflicted by that particular bill, but on account of the just and timely principles which he lays down in regard to the construction of railroads and the grant of valuable franchises in this City. We may reasonably hope, in spite of adverse prospects, that this message may put a stop, at least for a time, to the outrageous scheme for a Broadway Railroad, and to the kindred and equally infamous projects of a similar character which are now pending in the State Legislature.

The message is written with great clearness and force. It lays down the fundamental principle that the streets of the City are the property of the people of the City,—and that any franchise for their use, or any grant of special rights and privileges in them, should be made for their benefit, and that they should receive the value of it. A railroad grant, like that proposed in the vetoed bill, is valuable, and its value is certain to increase with the growth of the City and the increase of its population. Governor HOFFMAN insists that such a grant should not be given away to any private company, or to private individuals; but should be sold for the most it will bring for the public good, and the proceeds paid into the public treasury. He holds that the Legislature has no more right, in law or in equity, to give away such a franchise than it would have to levy a tax on the City, sufficient to produce a sum of equal value, for the exclusive benefit of the same individuals. Mr. A. T. STEWART, for example, has offered to pay two, and another citizen has offered to pay three, millions of dollars for the franchise embodied in the Broadway Railroad scheme. The Legislature, in Governor HOFFMAN's view, has no more right to give that franchise to a private company, as it proposes to do, than it has to take two or three millions of dolllars out of the City Treasury, or to levy and collect a tax on the City property to that amount, and hand it over as a free gift to the same parties. If they were to attempt the latter, there is not a man in the City or the State who would hesitate to brand the transaction as open and flagrant robbery. How is its character changed, by changing the form of the property to be taken? Why is it any the less robbery when it is land, than it would be if it were cash, that is seized?

It is impossible to deny the justice of the principle thus laid down by the Governor, or to weaken the force of the argument by which he sustains it. It will commend itself to the Legislature and to the people of the State;—there is absolutely no class of our citizens who will dispute or doubt it but those who were to be benefited by the grant, and even they must concede its justice even while deploring their loss of plunder.

Governor HOFFMAN declares his conviction of the need of railroad communication in the City, and that "the just mode of providing additional railroad facilities for the City of New-York would be to authorize the construction of such roads on suitable routes, with careful regulations for the protection of public and of private interests." This is sensible and just. But we submit that the subject demands a more careful and systematic treatment than it has hitherto received. The selection of routes, the construction of the roads, the care of the streets through which they run, and the management of the roads, has hitherto been left wholly to the private interests of the companies concerned; and the result is that the public interests and convenience have been entirely neglected. The routes selected have been those likely to yield most profit, not those on which railroads would least interfere with general traffic. The rails laid down have been of the rudest sort,—into which carriage wheels would most readily drop and from which they could be extricated with most difficulty,—so that they destroy the streets for the use of carriages and thus make them virtually the private property of the railroad companies. As many tracks are laid down as the streets will hold, without the least regard to the wants of other traffic, or the use of the streets by the public at large for which they were designed. The companies run only as many cars as they think proper. They furnish passengers the smallest possible accommodation, do not undertake to give them seats, crowd them to suffocation, without the slightest regard to health or comfort, and render them, at certain hours of the day, a nuisance instead of a convenience, simply to promote the private and personal profit of those who own them.

This branch of the public service has become too important, and the comfort of life and the convenience of business in the City are too much involved in it, to allow it to be carried on in this reckless, unregulated manner any longer. The active, constant supervision of a competent Board, which should designate routes, prescribe the form of rails and the modes of construction, and lay down rules for the management of the roads, with power to secure their enforcement, is required by the public good and the convenience of the people. And before the Legislature makes grants for any more roads, it should provide for some such general superintendence in the interest of the public at large.

Governor HOFFMAN has earned the confidence and gratitude of the people by the just and admirable stand he has taken on this subject. We hope it may have the effect of directing public attention to this matter, and of arresting the nefarious action which is threatened in the Legislature in regard to it.

The Demand for Cuban Recognition.

Although the South supplies fillibusters for Cuba, the Southern Press expends both irony and criticism on the false position in which the recognition of the Cuban insurrection would place the Government of the United States. The impossibility of reconciling the comparatively unorganized insurrection now going on with the position assumed by the Government in regard to the recognition of the Southern rebellion by foreign Powers, forms the obvious text of a sharp discussion. The New-Orleans Picayune condenses this aspect of the case against recognition into a couple of sentences:

> "If Mr. SEWARD was logically right in contending that a confederacy composed of eleven States, some of them older than the Government of the United States itself, in actual possession of a territory larger than the Kingdom of Spain, with a Government fully obeyed by many millions of people, and holding, at the time, ports extending along coasts of seas and Gulf for two thousand miles, was the sign only of a mere local commotion, which other Governments could not invest with any of the rights of belligerence without manifest wrong to the sovereignty of the United States, how could Mr. FISH argue with Spain that the United States may, in good faith, acknowledge an insurgent Government in Cuba—which has no local habitation, no known constituency, no defined area of territory, and no known means for holding communication with the world, outside of the coasts of the island, or even with its coasts? If the Confederates were mere insurrectionists, not entitled to belligerent rights at all—with what face can Mr. FISH, or any successor, accord the rights of belligerents to roving, unorganized bands, however numerous, in the interior of an island, which has belonged to Spain since the first discovery of America by a continuous title, which all the early Administrations of our own Government undertook to protect, by refusing to be a party, even to a protectorate which would give other nations the privilege of interfering, and by avowing more than once that we would not permit any European Power but Spain to hold the island, either by conquest or by purchase?"

These queries go to the heart of the question. Any plea now presented for acknowledging the Cuban insurrection, or for hastily recognizing any body purporting to be a Government which the insurrection may produce, may be urged with greater force by Great Britain and France in justification of their conduct toward the Confederacy. If the House resolution is right now, they were right in 1861. If we may accord belligerent rights to an insurrection which by comparison is trifling, they were warranted in proclaiming the belligerent privileges of a rebellion which by comparison was gigantic. From this dilemma there is no deliverance. Its proportions are rendered more striking by the fresh phases that have been imported into the Alabama controversy. The refusal to ratify the Clarendon-Johnson Treaty proceeds on the assumption that a great wrong was done by the recognition of the Confederacy. That hypothesis would be demolished if the demand for Cuban recognition were complied with. We must be consistent in this matter, or limit the Alabama controversy to the single question of money.

The Haytian Project and its Influence.

Although with the adjournment of Congress the Haytian project in its triple guise of protection, purchase and annexation, came to an end, yet so did not, probably, its insidious influence. We shall almost certainly see it again next December; for, familiarity with a proposition however odious, often paves the way to success, especially if the right sort of details are made manifest and the right sort concealed. It is in politics, sometimes, as in the poet's line, we "first endure, then pity, then embrace;" and it is something of a triumph for the San Domingo project that we have been able to "endure."

Of course we do not mean to assert that in politics as in physics, the axiom that "action and reaction are equal, and in opposite directions," is mathematically true; on the contrary, we hardly believe any "reaction" next year regarding the Banks project will induce Columbia to embrace as her children the sons of Hayti and daughters of Domingo. Still, the rebuff of the last session will not insure the abandonment of the mischievous project, which is more likely to be held in abeyance till something favorable "turns up."

Now, exactly how much humbug there is in the Hayti business, and how much swindle in the San Domingo, it is hard to say. We only know that it has been pressed unblushingly, despite universal popular disapproval; and we know that the very presentation of such projects injures our credit and good repute in the eyes of the world. It is with reason that the London Times declares that "it is through such discussions in the House as that on the Protectorate of Hayti and San Domingo that the American character is misapprehended;" and it is a truth which we feel quite as keenly as do Transatlantic observers, that "the sound conclusions of the majority are scarcely able to efface the memory of the wild theories that are broached, and apparently received with respect until the final decision is expressed."

The truth is—and it is a very annoying and shameful one—that the lobbies of the National Legislature have come to be the resort of all classes of foreign as well as native schemers. BAEZ, for example, takes it for granted that by adroit management he can foist off San Domingo upon us, and if not that, then at least Samana, in order to replenish his exhausted treasury, and thereby maintain sometime longer his insecure seat. And so it is with many other onlookers. That the Protectorate proposition is overwhelmingly defeated, that the purchase project is not even ventured, that the annexation resolution is not suffered to come to a vote, are facts which do not destroy the bad moral influence exhaled by the very reception and discussion of such schemes in the House.

Collector Bailey.

The contest over revenue appointments at Washington has ended at last in the complete triumph of Collector BAILEY over the fierce and formidable hostility which he was compelled to encounter. That hostility, in our judgment, was inspired by the vigilance and vigor with which he performed his duties while Collector of the Fourth District, and was waged in the interest and by the efforts of the men whose fraudulent projects he then thwarted, or punished, and who naturally desired to keep him out of the service hereafter. It is stated on good authority that they raised a large sum of money to accomplish the defeat of his confirmation, and our correspondence at Washington has stated that well-known agents and representatives of the Whisky Ring were the most active of his opponents. We naturally regard Mr. BAILEY's success as a victory of official integrity and vigor over dishonesty and fraud. His rejection would have given infinite encouragement to parties engaged in defrauding the revenue, and would have proved correspondingly detrimental to the public service. We congratulate the Government on having been wise enough to retain his services.

Railroad Projects.

The Arcade Railroad project for Broadway is again pressed on the attention of the Legislature, and, according to the Tribune correspondence, "is regarded by many as the best which has been devised to meet the wants of the citizens of New-York." We know of none, except those pecuniarily interested in obtaining the charter, who so regard it. In our judgment it is decidedly and conspicuously the worst. It proposes, as our readers know, to scoop out Broadway for its entire width and throughout its whole length, to the depth of seventeen feet, and cart it away; and then to build, as a roof to the cavity thus created, on pillars of iron, a new Broadway for the use of carriages, pedestrians and general traffic, while the floor of the cavity is to be used for railroad tracks. This is the way in which it is to "accommodate the public, by making two Broadways, one of them covered and free from dust, snow, rain, &c."

That it would be so enormously expensive as to be impracticable,—that it would undermine the foundation of all buildings on Broadway,—that it would render that street impassable for at least five years, besides destroying the new pavement now being laid, requiring a reconstruction of all the sewers, water pipes, gas pipes, &c., now existing, and prove of very doubtful utility at last, any one who examines the subject practically can have no difficulty in perceiving. That it looks very well on paper, and that the imaginary pictures which have been made of it as it will look when completed, are very pretty, we admit:—but the construction of the work, in fact, is a very different matter.

The most feasible and useful of all the projects thus far submitted to the Legislature, in our judgment, is the Two-tier Road. It provides for purchasing its right of way, over a feasible and suitable route, and for putting it in the power of everybody who wishes to take its stock,—none being given to anybody or put under control of a private corporation. It has passed one branch of the Legislature: we hope it will pass the other.

MINOR TOPICS.

It seems that Judge BARNARD cannot issue injunctions fast enough,—for forgers have now taken to forging them. The first case turned up yesterday in the Supreme Court. In the Christy trial, one of the parties referred to an injunction issued by Judge BARNARD to restrain another party from parting with a $10,000 mortgage. The Judge denied that he ever granted it; and when counsel threatened to produce the original injunction, "signed by your Honor," his Honor alleged that he never signed it. Counsel then handed up the original document, and, on examination, the Judge pronounced the signature a forgery. Can there be any doubts of the genuineness of some of the other injunctions bearing the same signature?

We have heard from Washington of a Federal office for which there are six applicants—a Bloomer woman, a loyal negro, a reconstructed rebel, a Republican Irishman, a wounded soldier, and a red-hot politician. Senator WILSON backs up the first, Senator SUMNER the next, Senator SPENCER backs up the third, Senator STEWART the fourth, Senator AUSTIN backs up the fifth, and Senator CHANDLER the last. Each of these applicants demands the place on the merit involved in the term by which we have designated him—that is to say, the first ought to have the office because she is a woman; the second, because he is a loyal negro; the next, because he is a reconstructed rebel; the next, because he is a Republican Irishman; the next, because he is a wounded soldier; and the last, because he is a red-hot politician. We will not attempt to decide as to the force of the respective claims; nor will we undertake to say which one of the applicants ought to have the place.

The Methodists must not only refrain from whisky, brandy, rum, gin, curacoa and absinthe—not only from porter, ale and lager-beer—not only from mixed drinks and all sorts of bar-room concoctions, but they must abjure the use of cider and domestic wines as beverages. They must "abandon the patronage of those physicians who prescribe alcoholic mixtures freely." They must labor for prohibitory legal enactments against the liquor traffic. They must consult their conscience as to the "expediency and even the rightfulness" of using intoxicating wine for sacramental purposes. They must, by precept and example, discontinue the use of the powerful narcotic, tobacco. Upon all these points the New-York East Conference of the Methodist Church has just expressed itself; and it has required each clergyman under its jurisdiction to preach, at least once a year, a sermon embodying these principles. If we consider these rules rather severe for the present weather, and if we object to one of them at any season, we certainly shall not regard anybody as a whit the less Christian for totolly abstaining from alcohol and nicotine.

Senator ANTHONY was permitted by the Senate yesterday to deliver a defence of the Rhode Island firm, Messrs. BROWN & IVES, who were so severely assailed by Senator SPRAGUE in one of his recent extraordinary speeches. Senator ANTHONY was quite severe on his colleague, whom he charged with slander and calumny. We presume that Senator SPRAGUE will demand the privilege of making a reply. But it must be remembered that this is an extra or Executive Session of the Senate, called for special business, and that general debate is not in order. The two Senators, therefore, will have to take to the newspapers, or what is better, give up the dispute over a matter which should never have been brought before the country—certainly not before the Senate.

The Treasury Department has issued a letter of instructions respecting the recent assessments of Mr. WEBSTER in Wall-street. On some points it is not very explicit, but it is intended to sustain the Assessor. We suppose the matter will have to be passed on by a court of law before it is considered settled.

In court, the other day, Judge BEDFORD made reference to the propensity of the Police for clubbing persons who fell into their hands. He spoke of his own knowledge in regard to the clubbing of wretched people under arrest, and told of cases where "poor, friendless, ragged, drunken women" were seized on the allegation of disorderly conduct, and clubbed till their bodies were black and blue. We should think that the best way to put a stop to this sort of thing would be to make an example of some culpable policeman by sending him to the Penitentiary for a term of years.

The Ex-President is advancing in his grand Southern march. His progress through Tennessee, from Knoxville to Nashville and Memphis, shows that he still retains his old popularity in that State, and still wields as great a power as ever over "the masses" and on the stump. At every station, shouting crowds gathered to welcome him; and the dispatches say that at Memphis he was met by a "vast concourse," and was escorted through the streets by the authorities and an "immense number" of people in carriages and on horseback. We have no doubt that these scenes will be repeated wherever Mr. JOHNSON may choose to go in the South. The fact is, the Southern people regard the Ex-President as their friend and defender against a "despotic Congress" led by STEVENS and BUTLER; and they consider that, though he failed, it was after a tremendous fight for them, in which he himself sacrificed everything. There is no doubt that he will be back in the Senate before the close of President GRANT's term.

Judge BENEDICT delivered a very forcible charge to the Grand Jury in reference to the violation of law by the officers of the emigrant ship James Foster. He referred to the stringent laws that had been enacted for the protection of passengers, and to the charges that had been made of their infraction in this case. For most of the cases of the violation of these laws, the remedy is a penal action brought by the passenger, in which he is entitled to recover damages. They had, however, only to investigate the present case as far as it might offer grounds for criminal proceedings, and if they found that on board any American ships the laws of the United States in reference to the protection of emigrant passengers had not been strictly complied with, it would be their duty to indict persons whenever it was found they required to be indicted. The public will watch the progress of this case, and its trial before a jury, with great interest.

Mrs. SCHNAUTZ, in taking the name of the great poet, seems to have also taken his family motto—Crede Byron. Mrs. GULET took that advice to her cost, and did "trust BYRON,"—but but did not get the watch. Those who fancy that this female sharper's branch of industry will be damaged by the late contretemps, lose sight of the fact that the belief in human jugglery is very strong. Many persons have a fatal propensity to be bamboozled, and one of the rhymers says:

> "Surely the pleasure is as great
> In being cheated as to cheat."

As sure as there is a spirit world Mme. BYRON will have more visitors to-morrow wanting to know, and paying a dollar down, the regular initiation fee.

Two English men-of-war, commanded by Admiral RODNEY MUNDY, are about to visit the harbor of New-York. We do not at all agree with those who think this movement is in consequence of Mr. SUMNER's late speech in Congress. We trust that the Senator himself in this crisis has none of the fears of the old English critic, DENNIS, who once wrote a very severe ode against LOUIS XIV., and, when a French fleet subsequently appeared off the coast, fled to the mountains. Mr. SUMNER, we hope, will go about his business as usual, and the gallant Admiral will have no thought of molesting him.

The Anniversary of the Woman's Medical College.

The recent anniversary of the Woman's Medical College and Infirmary, under the Misses Dr. BLACKWELL, was an event of much interest in the medical world. After a most persistent struggle of fifteen years, these ladies have at length established the claims of the Woman's College on the confidence of the public and its firm position among the recognized institutions of the City.

The exercises of the anniversary, held at the theatre of the Union League Club, were of more than usual interest. It is true that the address to the graduating class of young ladies might have been omitted with profit; and Mr. CURTIS, who can be truly eloquent, was on that occasion merely rhetorical, favoring his audience with what seemed bits and patches of old lectures on "Women's Rights," and making most fiery onslaughts on imaginary enemies and oppressors of the sex; looking at the whole question of woman's being a physician from the rhetorical stand-point of Liberty, and not from the very commonplace one of "Whether she is competent?" But apart from this, there was a clear, modest, compact statement made by Miss Dr. BLACKWELL of the work of the College and the principles on which they labored, and the objects they had in view, which could not but convince the most skeptical audience that there was a sound practical work, and organizing brains fully competent to manage it. The Misses BLACKWELL evidently are no superficial enthusiasts or wild reformers. They simply aim to train women as nurses and young ladies as physicians by offering them a medical course in a college where they are exposed to no annoyance, and practice in a sort of dispensary among the poor. Their Infirmary during the last year has itself been a great public charity, having treated gratuitously over 7,000 cases among the poor. The students, of course, are thus allowed constant practice and experience among real cases. They have their own cliniques, and all the advantages in books, lectures and illustrations which any male students enjoy. Being members of a college which is recognized by the profession, and whose diplomas are confirmed by law, they are now admitted, we believe, to all the medical advantages which they desire to have in the City. The course of instruction is wisely made longer than in the other colleges, so that these young women may go forth as thoroughly trained as possible. Though closely taught in both the general theory and practice of their profession, they are especially instructed in the diseases of women and children. Dr. PARKER, who gave a most hospitable welcome to the young College among the medical institutions of the City, stated in his excellent address on this occasion, that a reform surpassing all other reforms of the day, was in progress in the medical profession, and that this Women's College was the only medical institution which had fully appreciated and acted under it. That was, the considering the subject of hygiene as the most important part of medical treatment. The old Romans, he stated, had increased the average of human life to over thirty years by their baths, and sun treatment and drainage. It fell off again in the Middle Ages, but that in a single city of Switzerland the average of human life had been doubled in three centuries by hygienic science, and in England now the average of human life was increased to over fifty years through the application and study of sanitary laws. Women, above all, were naturally adapted to the study and application of hygienic laws, and, almost to the jealousy of the sister colleges, the Women's College was the first in America that had a "Professorship of Hygiene."

In the haste of a platform address, the learned doctor probably misstated some of his vital statistics, but every one in the audience must have felt that in the extremely earnest manner in which he pictured the absolute power of woman "over her little empire" for good or ill, and the necessity of "a most skillful and able hand to steer the helm of the family through the storms of life," there was a higher appreciation of woman's true position in this country, than in all the compliments or wild assertions of the "Women's Rights" rhetoricians. "Woman," he said, "was naturally and inevitably a doctor," and the only question was, how much should science aid her instinct and practical experience.

The statement of Dr. PARKER's is undoubtedly the utterance of a great truth hardly yet appreciated by the profession, and certainly not by the public, that hygiene is the most important branch of medical science. As he intimated, a reform in this direction, if it be profound, is probably of more importance to the happiness of mankind than all the legal, political and social reforms of the century. It is, in fact, the direct application of science, not to cure, nor only to prevent disease, but to create as perfect health as human circumstances will allow, by perfecting the conditions and studying the laws of complete sanity of body and mind. The first elements of the science have already lengthened human life in all large cities, saved vast numbers of young children, prevented pestilences and foul-air diseases, and directly increased thus the power and wealth of civilized communities.

As it is more closely and thoroughly studied and carried out, what immense help to the whole community may we not see from this great science—the science of health—gradually taking much of the position which that of medicine once assumed. And in its grand future development, who so fitted for taking a powerful part as women? Their superior fineness of sense, their delicacy and close observation, their study of minute symptoms, and their experience with children, fit them peculiarly for hygienic studies and practice. The hygiene of every household now depends mainly on the woman. It is she who knows the vital importance of sunshine, who first suspects local causes of disease, who provides most carefully for ventilation and temperature, and is forever occupied in guarding children or neglectful men against hidden sources of sickness. She is certainly by nature "a hygienic doctor;" and probably it is in this field especially that she will confer such vast blessings on the community in future.

Whether she will ever be able or adapted to treat difficult diseases, especially among men, and certainly whether she will ever attain to proficiency in surgery, are yet matters in doubt. It will need several generations of instruction in medical science and practice before her scientific value in these fields will be determined. Inheritance affects mental as well as bodily processes; and there must be a long series of medical women before it can be affirmed whether they can or cannot ever equal men in scientific treatment of diseases. The question of sex, too, is a tremendous and utterly unknown element in the future solution of these problems. It must profoundly influence all wise plans for women's education; and any mistake in regard to it is far more disastrous and perilous to the race than a mistake made in regard to men. It seems to us a mere rhetorician's trick to treat of the obstacles to woman's sharing the man's professions, as acts of masculine oppression. The obstacles lie in doubts of her capacity, and in fears for the whole structure of society if nature be violated.

REVENUE DECISION.

Capital Used in Banking—Assessor Webster Sustained by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

The Thirty-second District of New-York produces by far the largest internal revenue of any district in the United States. It comprises the lower end of the City of New-York, bounded by a line drawn from the North River through Liberty-street, Broadway, Park-row and Catherine-street to the East River. Within its limits are located nearly all the large banks, insurance companies, railroad companies and other financial institutions, as well as the stock exchanges, the great private bankers, and the numerous stock and gold brokers of the City of New-York. There are few residents in the district, and every street and nearly every building is used in the service of either commerce or finance. Here, also, are Wall-street and Broad-street, which form the recognized financial centre of the country. There was consequently abundant reason why the internal revenue of the district should be very large. But large as it was and is, it has always been a matter of astonishment, on the part of those familiar with its vast resources and the existing laws, that the amount was not very much greater. There has been a constant warfare between the Government on the one hand and the taxpayers on the other, the latter generally securing the fruits of victory, and loud have been the complaints of the inequality of taxation from the producing classes elsewhere. The deficiency has principally arisen from the evasions of bankers and brokers, which latter is, in nine cases out of ten, merely the official designation of a speculator.

By one of the earlier acts a tax was imposed upon sales of stocks, bonds and gold when made by brokers, and bankers doing business as brokers—a moderate tax, one-twentieth of one per cent. only, but subsequently doubled on gold. The monthly returns were imperfectly and irregularly made, and soon a judicial decision was announced that bankers could not be held liable under this section.

Immediately the brokers formed in line at the Collector's office, paid an additional $50, and took out a banker's license. Subsequently one of the curiosities of legislation was developed in an amendment of the law including the bankers, but reducing the tax to the merely nominal amount of $1 on a thousand, payable by stamps—a system easily evaded and wholly unproductive. By the act of July, 1864, a duty was also imposed upon the capital of any bank, association, company or corporation, or person engaged in the business of banking. It was impossible for corporate institutions to avoid this tax, but its evasion by private individuals and firms was so marked that by act of July, 1866, Congress especially separated this class, and enacted that the duty should be levied upon the capital of any bank, association, company or corporation, and on the capital employed by any person in the business of banking.

Strong as this was, the bankers were equal to the occasion, and made no better returns than before. In some instances their books were kept in such a manner as to show that there was no capital in the concern, that the means were entirely borrowed, and that it continues an existence only through the forbearance or ignorance of its friends, not unfrequently its individual members, who of course felt justified in loaning the necessary means for transacting business. Branches of foreign houses transferred their capital and private accounts to the other side of the water, and acted merely as agents here.

In this state of affairs Mr. Assessor WEBSTER assumed the charge of the Thirty-second District, with a full determination to execute the laws both in letter and in spirit. Besides what is already enumerated, other serious evasions were discovered, especially in the stamp duty upon loans.

But desirous of accomplishing one thing at a time, he gave his first attention to the meagre and evasive returns of tax upon bankers' capital. There were two taxes: First, a special tax of two dollars per thousand, and secondly the monthly tax of one-twenty-fourth of one per cent. Out of 350 houses holding bankers' license in the Thirty-second District last year, scarce a dozen acknowledge over $50,000 capital. The great majority of these houses made no monthly returns whatsoever. Of the others, slender returns were made on deposits, and in a very few instances a nominal amount on capital. Mr. WEBSTER early took the ground that such returns were evasive and fraudulent; that Congress intended to derive a revenue from this source; that by specially changing the act and separating the condition of taxable capital of the corporate institution and the private banker, it had entirely ignored the question of ownership; that it had especially defined the business of banker on a person, firm or company having a place of business where credits are opened by the deposit or collection of money or currency subject to be paid or remitted upon draft, check or order, or where money is advanced or loaned upon stocks, bonds, bullion, bills of exchange or promissory notes, or where the same are received for discounts or sale—that consequently persons and firms transacting such business were required to pay the monthly tax of one twenty-fourth of one per cent. upon the capital so employed, whether owned by them or temporarily or permanently borrowed—that the ownership of the means so used was not to be considered—that all persons were bankers under the law who received and delivered stocks, gold, &c., or made advances thereon, and that a broker simply negotiated purchases and sales.

As might have been expected, such a decision on the part of Mr. WEBSTER aroused consternation and discussion in Wall-street, especially as the Assessor expressed the determination to require amended returns for the last fifteen months, and to have the law thoroughly executed. The controversy has raged for some weeks, and an appeal had been taken to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

After a careful examination of the law and the facts, Mr. WEBSTER has the satisfaction of knowing that he is fully sustained, as will be seen by the following letter received this morning:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF INTERNAL REVENUE,
WASHINGTON, April 13, 1869.

SIR: Messrs. ———, Bankers, at No. — Wall-street, have addressed this office under date of 8th inst., asking if in their monthly return of capital for tax, as provided in section 110, law in force, they should include the average amount of money they have borrowed during the particular month.

As they have been referred to you for the necessary information, you are instructed that the average of all money, whether borrowed or otherwise, used or employed during the month by any banker in the business of banking, excepting only deposits which are returned for tax as such, should enter into the estimate of the capital taxable under the section.

Very respectfully,
(Signed,) J. W. DOUGLASS,
Department Commissioner.

E. D. WEBSTER, Esq., Assistant Thirty-second District New-York, New-York City.

FRAUDULENT NATURALIZATION PAPERS.

The Senate this morning passed the bill to punish the procuring or issuing fraudulent certificates of naturalization. It is as follows:

The People of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Any judicial officer who shall, knowingly and willfully, grant or order to be issued, and any clerk of any Court, or other like ministerial officer, who shall, knowingly and willfully, sign or seal or issue or deliver, to any person any false or fraudulent certificate that such person or any person has been duly naturalized as a citizen of the United States or is entitled to the rights of a citizen thereof, with the intent to enable any person to vote at any election in fraud or violation of the laws of the United States or of this State, shall, on conviction thereof, be deemed guilty of a felony, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the State Prison for a term of not less than one year nor more than five years.

SEC. 2. If any person shall, knowingly and willfully, procure from any Court or any Judge thereof, or from any clerk or other ministerial officer, any certificate of naturalization which has been allowed or issued, or signed or sealed in violation of the laws of the United States or of this State, with the intent to enable himself or any other person to vote at any election when he or such person is not entitled by the laws of the United States to become a citizen or to exercise the franchise of suffrage, he shall, on conviction, be deemed guilty of a felony, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the State Prison for not less than one nor more than five years.

SEC. 3. If any person shall, knowingly and willfully, present to any board of officers, for the purpose of having himself or any other person placed upon any list or registry of voters, or to any board of officers, for the purpose of enabling himself or any other person to vote at any election, any certificate of naturalization which has been allowed or issued by any judicial officer, or by any clerk of any Court or other ministerial officer of any Court, or procured by any person from such officers, or either of them, by any false statement, oath or representation, or in violation of the laws of the United States or of this State, with intent to enable any person to vote at any election when such person is not entitled by the laws of the United States, or of this State, to exercise the franchise of suffrage, he shall, on conviction, be adjudged guilty of a felony, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the State Prison for not less than one nor more than five years.

Senator CREAMER tried to get the bill recommitted, and was the only Senator who voted against it. Apropos of this subject, Mr. LA BAU will to-morrow offer a resolution for the appointment of a Special Committee to investigate, during the recess of the Legislature, the charges against certain Judges and Courts in New-York City in connection with the issue of fraudulent naturalization papers last Fall. A petition signed by over two thousand persons, including a large number of the leading citizens of New-York, has been sent here asking for the investigation, as due to the Courts and to the community, in view of the serious imputations cast upon the City Judiciary by the Congressional investigating Committee. The Democracy threaten that if such an investigation is ordered by the Assembly they will ask for a committee to investigate the charges of bribery made against FENTON while he was Governor, and also in connection with the Senatorial contest at the beginning of this session. FENTON's friends tell them to go ahead and see how large a mare's nest they will find.

LEGISLATION AGAINST JERSEYMEN.

The bill to prevent residents of other States from leasing any stall or doing business in any of the public markets of New-York City, came up in Committee of the Whole in the Assembly to-day, and excited considerable discussion. Mr. LA BAU and Mr. HEGEMAN opposed the bill, and doubted its constitutionality, as its tendency was to restrict trade between the States. Mr. HEGEMAN said it was an attempt to create a close corporation in Washington Market. There was just as good reason for preventing brokers residing in New-Jersey from doing business in New-York, as to prevent them from leasing stalls in her markets. The interests of the poor people of the City lay in keeping the sale of provisions open to competition, and not restricting it to a "ring." Mr. MURPHY, Mr. HITCHMAN and Mr. PLUNKET, from New-York, advocated the bill, and Mr. HITCHMAN said its passage was desired by the Comptroller. The bill was ordered to a third reading, by a vote of 63 to 28—all the New-York delegation, except Mr. RICHMOND, voting in the affirmative.

Moral.—All persons who desire to do business in New-York hereafter should forthwith remove their families to the Sixth Ward, live in a tenement-house and vote the Democratic ticket.

SWAIN'S BILL—THE SENATE REFUSES TO SEND IT BACK.

The Senate to-day refused to send SWAIN'S Two-Tier Railroad bill back to the Assembly for amendments, as requested by that body yesterday. They prefer to amend it themselves.

A BIG PURCHASE.

The Assembly to-day ordered to a third reading, by a vote of 49 to 46, a bill introduced by Judge MILLER, authorizing the Canal Commissioners to purchase for the sum of $500,000 the Junction Canal, extending from the Chemung Canal, in the City of Elmira, to the Pennsylvania line near Athens. Judge CAMPBELL, Mr. HUSTED and others protested against rushing through such an important measure, which the Canal Committee refused to report favorably, but Judge MILLER made a lengthy speech in its favor, and it was carried mainly by Democratic votes.

THE BROADWAY RAILROAD.

The Broadway Railroad bill came up in its order for a third reading in the Senate to-day, when its friends moved to lay it on the table, which was carried. They are nonplussed by the bold position assumed by the Governor on the subject of street railroads, and want time to take breath. The scheme is not abandoned, but they are puzzled to know what precise movement should next be made on the chess-board.

THE NEW COUNTY.

Mr. CONANT'S bill for the creation of a new county, to be called "Nassau," out of the towns of North and South Hempstead, Huntington, Smithtown and Oyster Bay, now lying in the Counties of Queens and Suffolk, was ordered to a third reading in the Assembly without opposition.

The Senate confirmed the following nominations to-day:

To be Hell Gate Pilots—Charles H. Palmer, John F. Adema.

To be Notaries Public—Martin A. Kelly, Horace W. Fowler, John J. Davenport, James S. Fuller, Thomas C. Ingersoll, Simon H. Stern, Thomas C. Campbell, John Ahern, Wm. Coulter, N. G. Dunn, G. P. Hawes, John J. Rilley, Fred. Zimmer.

THE POLICE COMMISSIONERSHIP.

There are any number of applicants for the Police Commissionership, made vacant by the resignation of Mr. ACTON. Supervisor SMITH is said to have the inside track. S.

PERSONAL AND LITERARY.

Messrs. THURLOW WEED and JOHN E. DEVLIN arrived from Charleston yesterday in the steamer Charleston.

We learn that Mr. A. C. WILSON, European Agent of New-York Associated Press, is recovering from the severe illness which has incapacitated him for duty during some weeks.

That creditable spirit of enterprise which has thus far distinguished Appleton's Journal (the new name already sounds familiar) is evidently to be continued. The third number was accompanied by a fine steel engraving from KENSETT'S "Moon on the Sea-shore"—a new feature with American weekly papers, admirable in subject and excellent in workmanship. The present, or fourth number, contains in like manner thirteen engravings of prominent scenes in New-York life. Such business enterprise forecasts success; for people will always give money where they have their money's worth.

L'Idee Nouvelle is the title of a newspaper in parallel columns of French and English, published at Burlington, Vt. Its principal object is to aid Americans in the study of the French language, by presenting translations of stories, the news, &c., side by side with the originals in French.

The art of making wood-engravings for newspapers, as well as the art of printing them, is making rapid progress in this country. The work seen every week in the best plates of Harper's Weekly, the Bazar, and Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, is nearly equal to that of the Illustrated London News, and only needs to be printed on firmer and heavier paper to be equally brilliant. This week's Rural New-Yorker also contains on its first page a very fine specimen of wood-engraving, carefully and brilliantly printed, representing the prize fowls at the New-York State Poultry Society's recent exhibition in this City.

ISAIAH ROGERS, a well-known and meritorious architect, died at Cincinnati last Monday. He was a Massachusetts man, was professionally well known throughout the United States, and had a very large circle of devoted personal friends.

General BUTLER goes to Baltimore next week to defend in person the suit brought against him by KIMBERLY BROTHERS to recover money collected for rent of the sutler's store at Fortress Monroe, built upon Government property, and which money was used by General BUTLER's orders to promote the health and comfort of the troops, by the purchase of ice, vegetables, &c.

The Hon. N. D. SPERRY, whose nomination as Postmaster at New-Haven has just been confirmed, has already held that position eight years, to the entire satisfaction of the people of New-Haven.

A paper was put in circulation at Providence, R. I., on Wednesday, for signatures to an invitation to Governor BURNSIDE, asking him to accept a public ovation, owing to the alleged aspersions of the First Rhode Island Regiment in the battle of Bull Run, by Senator SPRAGUE.

Rev. Dr. PRICE, of South Wales, G. B., editor of the Seven Cymru, (Star of Wales,) is expected to arrive in this country in the City of Baltimore, which left Liverpool on the 7th of April. The Doctor is one of the most eminent men in the Principality of Wales, taking a lively interest in all public questions, and has effected more good, it is said, than any four of the best public men in his denomination, (the Baptist.) The reverend gentleman was appointed, with Rev. Mr. HENRY, of Scotland, to visit America in the Fall, on behalf of the Irish Missionary Society; but he comes thus early so that he may go among his countrymen in their various settlements previously to his entering with Mr. HENRY in September upon the special mission to which they are appointed. Invitations from all parts of the country await Dr. PRICE's arrival.

Chief Justice Meredith and Chancellor Van Koughnet, of Canada, General James Kilpatrick, of New-Jersey, and General F. G. Martindale, of North Carolina, are at the Metropolitan Hotel. Senator Morrill, of Maine; Judge Kattell, of Binghamton; Hon. O. B. Madison, of Utica; Senator Poland, of Vermont; General J. W. Hofmann, of the U. S. Army; Hon. J. D. Chambers, of Washington, and Hon. Moses Peirce, of Boston, are at the Astor House. Governor J. B. Page, of Vermont; Alderman E. A. White, of Boston; Hon. James Medill, of Chicago, and Hon. Frank Steele, of Minnesota, are at the St. Nicholas Hotel. Mr. Sanchez, the Chilian Minister; Hon. William Painter, of Philadelphia; Hon. Geo. G. Munger, of Rochester, and P. Ferez, of Paris, are at the Fifth-avenue Hotel.

Democratic Union Organization—Protests Against the School and Railroad Bills.

The Democratic Union Organization met last evening at Masonic Hall, in Thirteenth-street. The various wards were fully represented by delegations.

Mr. OWEN MURPHY, the President, opened the meeting by a few remarks, in the course of which he spoke of the greedy attempts of unscrupulous men to abolish some of the most beneficent laws of our land.

Mr. ROSWELL D. HATCH, of the Twenty-second Ward, followed with an eloquent speech, in which he commended our present School law, and which he stated that meeting had been called to sustain,—that they had been assailed by the Tammany Ring, who cared little for the sacred trust of educating our youth, but were determined, if possible, to obtain control of the $3,000,000 at present annually appropriated, that they could handle it for their own purposes; that if the schools were to be subject to the caprice of certain parties, they would become a nest of corruption and a disgrace to the City.

He then offered the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, A bill has been introduced in the Legislature of the State of New-York, and is now pending therein, and its passage urged by members of that body from this City, whereby it is proposed to make extensive and violent changes in the law now regulating the public schools in the City of New-York for party purposes, and to remove the Commissioners now having control of the Board of Education, who were elected by the people of the several districts in which they respectively reside, and to substitute in their places a partisan Board, under the control of the Tammany Ring, to disburse the school fund of $3,000,000, without reference to the local residence and fitness of the several candidates for such positions; and

Whereas, The present system, as established by law, has fully commended itself to the candid judgment, favorable consideration and undivided support of all classes of our citizens, who are most deeply interested in the education of the young and the success of the public schools, without regard to sect or political party; now, therefore, it is

Resolved, That the Democratic Union Organization of the City of New-York is in favor of the present law, and that the system of conducting our public schools commends itself to the united favor of all right-thinking citizens of this City, without regard to creed, sect or political party, and that any change therein, and particularly the one proposed by the bill in question, could only be productive of great evil in the management of our schools, and we are wholly opposed to the law now being urged to its passage.

Resolved, That the Board of Education of this City, as now constituted and elected from the districts in which they reside, has our entire respect and confidence, and we respectfully request the Legislature of the State to allow the law governing such Board, and under which its members were elected, to remain unchanged.

Mr. PATRICK KIERNAN, of the First Ward, then offered the following resolutions:

Whereas, There is now pending before the Legislature of the State of New-York, a bill to authorize the construction of a certain railroad in the City of New-York, and across the Harlem River, better known as "The Two-tier Elevated Railroad;" and,

Whereas, The passage of such an act would not only destroy some of the finest commercial houses of this City, but also, three of the oldest Christian churches in the City and State of New-York, St. Peter's, St. Paul's, and Trinity; and,

Whereas, Such bill is urged to its passage by a ring of unscrupulous railroad jobbers, who would not hesitate to rob the sanctuary, the cradle and grave; therefore,

Resolved, That the Union Democracy of New-York protest against the passage of such an act of vandalism.

Resolved, That this Committee also protests against the passage of the Broadway Railroad bill, and all such acts of special legislation, which tend to deprive the City of valuable franchises.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the Governor of this State, to the President of the Senate and to the Speaker of the Assembly.

The adoption of this was unanimous.

The meeting then adjourned.

Cleaning the Streets—What the Contractor Proposes to Do.

Ex-Judge WHITING, the street-cleaning contractor, avows his intention to put the streets in a cleanly condition—a thing that is badly needed, as is evident to every one who traverses them. The work of giving them a thorough cleansing was begun this Spring much earlier than ever before, and they will soon be put in a very passable state. The contractor alleges that if the ordinance forbidding the throwing of ashes, garbage, &c., into the carriage-ways and gutters was rigidly enforced, the streets could be kept clean at less trouble to him, The Board of Health some time ago ordered the removal from the streets of the large stationary garbage-boxes which were provided for the tenement-houses in various thickly-settled portions of the City, and since then all the dirt and refuse matter from these tenements are thrown into the streets. Under these circumstances, it is a herculean task to keep the thoroughfares in proper condition. The contract requires that Broadway shall be swept every night; Fifth-avenue, Bowery, Chatham-street and Park-row three times per week, and the Sixth and Eighth avenues twice a week; while it leaves the City slums, such as Water, Baxter, Mott, Mulberry, and streets of like character to be swept only once a week. It is impossible, Mr. WHITING alleges, under these circumstances, to keep these latter in a really clean state, especially as the residents there seem to consider the street as a proper receptacle for all the filth that accumulates daily in their apartments. The order of things as to cleaning should be reversed, or at least these streets should be swept tri-weekly. The system now in vogue is similar to that of sweeping one's parlor daily and leaving the kitchen to be cleaned but once a week. Another hindrance to the proper cleanliness of our thoroughfares is in the fact that in many of them the carriage-ways are in a wretched condition, filled with holes and ruts in which the dirt accumulates, and whence it is difficult to remove it. In these it remains until evaporated by the action of the sun. Prominent among the streets in this condition are Coenties-slip, Old-slip, Pearl, South, and West streets, down town, and many of the streets in the Twentieth and Twenty-second Wards, in the upper part of the City, especially those sections striking the river. The number of men now engaged by Mr. WHITING is about 700. One matter in the way of clean streets, and which deserves the attention of the Board of Health, is this: The law requires that the water-closets, sinks, &c. of tenement-houses shall have sewer connections, so as to afford means of carrying off the filth that necessarily accumulates where there is a dense population under one roof. It may be safely averred, however, that more than one-half the large tenement-houses have no such connection, and, as a consequence, in many cases the contents of urinals are thrown into the streets. The Board of Health might be very profitably engaged in finding out the tenements which lack the sewer connections required by law, and compelling their owners to make the desired improvement. Complaints have been made that in many cases, although the street dirt was swept up into heaps, the removal of it was not made for some time thereafter. This was owing to the inability of the contractor to procure a sufficient number of carts to carry away the dirt as fast as it was swept while the Spring cleaning was going on. The contractor gives his assurance that hereafter there will be no cause of complaint in this particular. It was to be observed not long since that a large number of Italians was at work on the streets, and rumor went abroad that Mr. WHITING had changed the personnel of his operating force. This is not the case. When the Spring cleaning was begun an extra force of hands was required to assist the regular brigade of cleaners, and the Italians offering themselves in great numbers, they were hired; they merely supplemented the Milesians. There were none the less signori from Cork and Limerick, but more from Naples and Florence.

Polytechnic Association.

This Association held its regular weekly meeting in room No. 24 Cooper Institute, last evening, Dr. PARMELEE in the chair. LESPERANCE's patent ventilator, which has heretofore been exhibited and discussed before the Scientific Association and fully reported and explained in the TIMES, was exhibited, and its merits very thoroughly discussed. Dr. EDWARDS regarded it as a one-legged man, inasmuch as it provided means for the ingress of air without reference to its egress, while on the other hand it was stated that the patent was based on the assumption that the rarified air would escape by way of the chimney, or other ordinary means of escape, and that as a medium through which purified air might be admitted, the invention was thoroughly efficient.

Mr. G. HODGSON, of Brooklyn, then explained his newly-patented process of making artificial stone, the simple elements being sand, quicklime and oxalic acid. Some specimens of the stone were exhibited, which appeared of about the same hardness as bath stone, but was claimed to grow harder with age, peculiarly adapted to ornamental purposes, and costing only from ten to fifteen per cent. more than the ordinary plaster of Paris.

Professor JOHNSON exhibited his process of producing a motive power by the application of heat to water so as to vary its density on one side from the other, thereby creating a motive power sufficient at least to elevate the bucket of a country well.

Mr. DIBDIN, from Colorado, was called upon, and spoke of the peculiar phenomena in that region, which is in about the same latitude as Baltimore, of the moisture being found frozen in the ground at a depth of 120 feet. This he explained as being caused by the fact that the sun's rays fall on the slopes of the mountain at such an angle that during the Winter it freezes to a greater depth than the Summer's sun is sufficient to thaw, and hence the frozen strata is deepening every year. The climate he described as very healthy, only one doctor being able to obtain a living in all that region, and he only succeeds through accidents to the miners.

The meeting then adjourned.

Second-avenue Railroad Strike.

The strike of the drivers upon the Second-avenue Railroad still continues, and the managers were unsuccessful in running more than about a dozen cars yesterday. Upon two of these the new hands quitted work half way upon the route, intimidated by the strikers, and left the cars to be driven by police officers. Personal violence upon duty is not feared by them, as they have recourse to the Police, but threats of assaulting them when going home are made. It is thought a pity that the men did not give the new system of eight trips instead of seven during the day, a fair trial before striking. Mr. QUEEN, the superintendent, insists that with increased speed it would have required but fifteen minutes more than the fourteen hours hitherto employed, and that the necessity for a retrenchment in expenses and a recourse to all means for increasing the income of the road was essential in its present unprosperous state. Complaints have been lately made to the Mayor that several of the new drivers were acting without a license, but as that only required a visit to the City Hall, and an outlay of twenty-five cents for the year, it was easily obtained. The crowd of idlers round the depot at Sixty-second-street remains as usual. The strikers do not obtain work elsewhere, and occupy themselves with lounging and with dissuading new comers from taking their places. Prospects for an immediate resumption of work are bad, and in the mean time the feed of nearly 200 horses must be provided, with but little income to meet the cost.

The New-York Draughtsmen's Association.

A meeting of this Association was held at the rooms in Plimpton Hall, corner of Stuyvesant and 9th-streets, on Wednesday evening last. The object of the Association, as we have before stated, is the general promotion of Arts and Sciences. The constitution and by-laws were read a third time and finally passed. The following gentlemen were elected officers for the ensuing year: President, R. MCLEAN CHARLTON; Vice-President, ALFRED SARGENT; Secretary, ISAAC REED; Assistant Secretary, G. OLIVER WHEELER; Treasurer, MAX SCHROFF; Editor, SAMUEL GADSMARK.

The President and the other officers elect addressed the meeting, returning thanks for the honors just conferred upon them, and assuring the members that they would ever be untiring in their efforts to advance the interests of the Association. The above proceedings occupying so much time the election of a Committee of Management was deferred until the next meeting, which will take place on Thursday next at the same time and place.

In a Trance.

Mr. E. RIELL, of No. 78 Concord-street, Brooklyn, who was recently injured by his horses taking fright, running away and throwing him from his wagon, came very nearly being buried alive the other day. It appears that on Monday evening, the 5th inst., he was supposed to be dead, and that preparations were in progress for the funeral. Meanwhile the supposed corpse was conscious of all that was going on, but was incapable of saying a word to stop operations. At length, on Tuesday afternoon, after having been dead, to all appearance, for twenty hours, he revived, sat up and spoke familiarly to his friends. He had been in a trance.

Death in a Station House.

Coroner KEENAN proceeded yesterday to hold an inquest over the remains of EDWARD ROGERS, who died in a cell in the Seventeenth Ward Police Station on Tuesday evening. JOHN R. CONKLIN, the test medium, appeared as a witness and stated that the deceased had been known to him as a writer for twelve years. On the 13th inst. he called on the witness, and after borrowing the small sum of ten cents handed CONKLIN a paper to be read after his departure. When Mr. CONKLIN read the paper he found it to be an obituary notice of ROGERS. This led to the belief that the deceased had committed suicide, though the post-mortem examination revealed no trace of poison. As it is supposed that ROGERS swallowed morphine, which might readily have been absorbed into the system, Dr. SHINE removed the stomach and contents for the purpose of analysis. The inquest has been adjourned to await the result.

The Central Elevated Railway.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The Secretary of this Company, in writing you that the names of Mr. ASTOR and Mr. STEWART were not named as "corporators" in the Central Elevated Railway bill before the Legislature, omits the fact, however, that these gentlemen were named in that bill as "Commissioners," a distinction without a difference. Both of these gentlemen's names were inserted in that bill without their permission or knowledge.

The Purest and Safest.

The efficacy of HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS as a specific for recruiting the enfeebled body and cheering the desponding mind has passed into a proverb. In the United States, where this marvelous tonic has borne down all opposition and eclipsed all rivalry, the demand for it has annually increased in a heavier and heavier ratio for years, until at last the regular sales of this preparation exceed those of all other stomachics combined. Eminent members of the medical profession, and hospital surgeons without number have candidly admitted that the pharmacopœia of the faculty contains no prescription that produces such beneficial effects in dyspepsia, general debility and nervous diseases as HOSTETTER'S BITTERS. To use the language of a venerable physician of New-York, "the Bitters are the purest stimulant and the safest tonic we have." But the uses of the great vegetable antidote are much more comprehensive than such praise would imply. As a preparatory antidote to epidemic disease, a genial stimulant, a promoter of constitutional vigor, an appetizer, a stomachic and a remedy for nervous debility, no medicinal preparation has ever attained the reputation of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS. It is the household tonic of the American people, and in all human probability will be so for centuries to come. The magnates of science recognize its merits; and that it is emphatically the medicine of the masses is proved by its vast and ever-increasing sales.—Advertisement.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ROBBERY OF $1,000,000.

The statement having been extensively published and advertised, that the St. John's Savings Bank, of Philadelphia, had been robbed of the above-named amount out of a
LILLIE BANK SAFE,
we deem it proper to state the facts.

THE BANK NEVER HAD A LILLIE SAFE!

Indeed, never had any safe. What it did have was an EXPRESS MESSENGER BOX, not made by Lillie, inclosed in a brick and stone vault, the outside door of which was manufactured by Lillie as a FIRE-PROOF ONLY, and SOLD AS SUCH, to a Philadelphia iron worker, (who manufactured the inside doors,) for the sum of $225, which included the lock!

So much for the responsibility of the Lillie Safe for the robbery.

It comprises about sixty acres of high land, lying seventy feet above high-water mark on one side, forming a bold cliff of that height overlooking the bay. The residence is an English cottage of brick, stuccoed, built in a most substantial manner, under the immediate personal supervision of the late occupant. It contains a library, drawing-room, dining-room, five bedrooms, attic and basement kitchen. There is a green-house and a grapery, (the latter well stocked,) a gardener's lodge convenient, barns, ice-house, &c. There is a fine assortment of choice fruit-bearing trees, some of them having been imported expressly for this estate. About twenty-three acres of the land are covered by a fine rich growth of trees and a luxuriant undergrowth of Kalmias; the remainder is divided into gardens and meadow land. There is a beautiful silver beach, most admirably adapted for bathing, and the adjoining waters are fitted to produce shell fish of a superior quality. The harbor is the best on Long Island, large and perfectly sheltered. For its healthfulness, its great natural beauty, its fitness for bathing and yachting, this place cannot be surpassed. SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at this Department until May 31, at 3 o'clock P. M., for furnishing envelopes for the official use of Postmasters during a period of two years from the 1st of July, 1869.

The estimated number of envelopes that will be required annually is as follows:

Class No. 1, 1,000,000, more or less, 3⅛ by 5⅛ inches.
Class No. 2, 4,000,000, more or less, 3¼ by 5½ inches.
Class No. 3, 750,000, more or less, 3½ by 6⅜ inches.
Class No. 4, 750,000, more or less, 4 by 9 inches.
Class No. 5, 300,000, more or less, 4½ by 10½ inches.

For Class No. 1, an ordinary quality of buff or yellow paper will answer. The other classes to be made from red, blue, green and buff or cream-colored paper, as may be required, of approved quality.

All the above-described envelopes must be made in the most thorough manner, well gummed for sealing upon the entire length of the flap, and must have such printing upon the face as may be directed by the Postmaster-General. They must be banded in parcels of twenty-five, packed in pasteboard or straw boxes; each to contain not less than 250 envelopes of letter size, and 100 each of extra letter, official, and extra official sizes, separately, or otherwise, as may be required; the boxes to be wrapped in strong paper, so as to bear transportation by mail for delivery to Postmasters. When required to be delivered at the Department, such wrapping will be dispensed with.

When 3,000 or more envelopes are required to fill the order of a Postmaster, they must be put up in strong wooden boxes and properly addressed; but when less than 3,000 are required, proper labels of direction must be placed upon each package by the contractor; the whole to be done under the direction of an agent of the Department.

The envelopes must be furnished in such quantities as may from time to time be required to fill orders of Postmasters or by the Department, and be delivered either at the Post Office in the city where the accepted bidder resides, or at the envelope agency, or at this Department, as the Postmaster-General may direct, free of cost for packing.

Bids are also invited for 60,000 envelopes, more or less, made from the best quality of white or buff paper, 4 by 8 9-10 inches, and to be printed in the manner prescribed by the Department, for use in the Dead Letter Office and at the Stamped Envelope Agency in the City of New-York. These envelopes, to be delivered in good order, free of cost for packing, both at the Agency in New-York and to the Department at Washington, D. C., in quantities as from time to time may be ordered.

Separate proposals will be considered for furnishing 750,000, more or less, annually, of "Registered Package Envelopes," 5 by 10¼ inches, made from heavy buff or Manilla paper, with such printing on the face as may be required by the Postmaster-General, and STRIPED BOTH ACROSS THE FACE AND BACK, LENGTHWISE, IN RED, the same to be put up in pasteboard or straw boxes; each containing 200, and packed in wooden cases in quantities of 4,000 or 6,000 each, for delivery at the Department, or to Postmasters, as may be directed, free of charge for packing.

All envelopes embraced in this advertisement required for delivery at the Department are to be conveyed as freight, free of cost for transportation, those for delivery to Postmasters to pass as mail matter.

The first delivery of envelopes specified above to be made on or about the 1st of July next.

Specimens of the different kinds of envelopes for which proposals are invited may be seen on application at the principal Post Offices, or at the Department.

Bidders are required to furnish specimens of the envelopes they propose to supply; and no bid will be considered unless offered by envelope manufacturers, accompanied by satisfactory guarantees.

The price bid and the quality of samples submitted will be taken into consideration in awarding the contract.

Bonds will be required for the faithful performance of the contract, and all payments under it will be made quarterly.

The Postmaster-General reserves the right to reject any or all bids, if deemed compatible with the public interests.

Bids must be indorsed "Proposals for Office and Returned Letter Envelopes," &c.; or "Proposals for Registered Package Envelopes," as the case may be, and addressed to the Third Assistant Postmaster-General.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

From the Annual Report—Workings of the Department—Suggestions for Its Improvement.

The fourth annual report of the Commissioners of the Metropolitan Fire Department, which was recently submitted to the Legislature, embraces a careful analysis of the workings of the Department for the year 1868, a record of the improvements introduced, and many valuable suggestions for its greater efficiency.

The report of Chief Engineer KINGSLAND, and a record of the fires and alarms of fires for the year, accompanies the main report. The Commissioners say:

Assuming their duties when the paid fire system was still an experiment, and its advantages not fully developed, and the losses by fire still very large, they laid down certain preliminary rules for its government, which they believed would increase its efficiency and commend it to the public favor. Time has justified the correctness of these convictions, and the Fire Department under their charge has rapidly approached to that degree of order and efficiency, combined with economy, which will in the end result in giving the best organization in existence to the City which excels in other advantages all others in the world. In no case has a dismissal from the Department been made for personal or political causes, but each member has been held amenable to the same rules and penalties, notwithstanding the importunities of the friends of violators of the rules. The Commissioners have organized a Board, consisting of the Chief Engineer, Assistant Engineer, and a District Engineer, before whom all seeking promotion have been compelled to appear and pass an examination based on knowledge of the duties of a fireman, on that of the rules and regulations of the Department, and of the use of apparatus, and of the details of the indoor duties and economies pertaining to the command of a company. This Board has examined 148 candidates, of whom 73 were recommended for promotion. The Commissioners have also organized a retiring board, consisting of the Assistant Engineer, a District Engineer, the Surgeon and a foreman, whose duty it is to investigate the qualifications and fitness for command of certain officers. This Board has met with the following result: Seven foremen and four assistants have appeared, of whom three foremen and two assistants have been found competent, six were incompetent, four of whom have left the service and two were reduced to the ranks. Each applicant for appointment, after his papers have been favorably considered, is sent to the surgeon for physical examination, and no person has been appointed who did not pass a favorable examination. The result is shown in the fact that the men of the Department are now of a better class, mentally and physically, than heretofore.

BUILDINGS.

The buildings of the department are the headquarters in Mercer-street, embracing offices of the Commissioners, Chief-Engineer, Secretary, Surgeon, Storekeeper, clerk and library, thirty-seven engine houses, fifteen truck houses, repair yard in Elizabeth-street, hospital stables in Chrystie-street, and eleven bell-towers—all of which are in good repair. A new bell-tower has been erected in Twenty-fifth-street, between Second and Third avenues, members of the Department gratuitously giving their services for the construction of the same. Two buildings which were in process of erection when the present Commissioners took charge of the Department, and on which heavy liens were placed by the builders, and which have since been in litigation, have been cleared from these incumbrances during the year at an expense of $14,752 30. It is estimated that real estate to the value of $500,000 has been surrendered to the City since the organization of the Board, and the Commissioners recommend that the Legislature empower them to sell such surplus property in their hands as they may think proper, the proceeds to be devoted to the erection of additional engine-houses in localities where the importance of business interests imperatively demand, better fire protection.

APPARATUS.

Experience has shown that the second-class steamer is best adapted to New-York use, and that steamers of the first class are too large and cumbersome, and attended with too much expense in wear and tear, especially in Winter, to be available. They propose to dispense with all of these, with the exception of two, and to use instead thereof lighter apparatus. Six new engines and sixteen tenders have been added to the equipment during the past year. The latter are constructed so that five men can ride upon them, thus including the three who ride upon the steamer, an entire company is taken fresh and speedily to a fire. Forty-nine sets of new harness have also been added. Owing to the rules adopted by the company officers in regard to the use of gas, a reduction in the cost has been made during the past year of about $2,500. The condition of the horses is highly satisfactory, which the Commissioners account for in part by the fact that they are the pets of the men, and receive at their hands the greatest care. Casualties during the year have been six, of which two were caused by accident.

No fire of any magnitude has occurred within the year, and while as many buildings have been on fire, the Department has been successful in conquering most with slight loss or in confining them to a single building. In twenty seconds after an alarm is given, the district companies are on their way to a fire.

BUREAU OF COMBUSTIBLE MATERIALS.

The Bureau of Combustible Materials, organized one year ago, consists of JOHN A. CREGIER, JOHN H. FORMAN, THEODORE KEELER, and RICHARD P. MOORE. Each receive $500 for their services from the insurance department. They are assisted by one man detailed from each fire company. The City has been divided into forty-six inspection districts, and for the year ending Dec. 1, 1868, 1,195 inspections are reported. In all cases hazardous material has been removed, and dangerous features in the construction of buildings remedied, without the necessity of a prosecution in a single case.

LIBRARY.

On Dec. 27, 1867, the Commissioners began the formation of a library for the use of the members of the Department, with the stipulation that it should be attended with no expense to the public. It contains over 3,000 books, the donations of kind friends, and the large hall of the headquarters has been fitted up for the use of the men of the Department without any additional expense. It will be open for the use of the members of the force early in the present year.

INSPECTIONS, &C.

During the year a system of inspection and drills has been introduced, which has rendered the discipline and esprit du corps of the Department second to no similar organization in the world.

The Commissioners refer to the unfortunate explosion of the steam engine in the Bowery, which was attended with loss of life and injury to several persons. The engineer in charge was at once dismissed from the Department. One benefit of the Police lines at fires is the shutting out all but the necessary force, which limits the risk of injury from similar accidents to the officers and men of the Department. But in this case an audience from a place of amusement was dismissing within the lines at the moment of the explosion.

The report says that the success of the Department has lived down the bitter hostility of its opponents. Although every step taken has been criticised and placed in the most unfavorable light, the good sense of the citizens of New-York has not long been misled by the misrepresentations of the friends of the old volunteer system.

CHIEF ENGINEER'S REPORT.

Chief Engineer KINGSLAND reports that of 308 candidates for appointment, 156 were found competent, and 145 rejected. The whole number of days lost in the force by illness or injuries were 3,460, which is a reduction from the sum total of the previous year. The whole number of cases of sickness during the year were 273, and seven deaths occurred, one of whom died from injuries received by having been run over by his engine.

The number of fires was 740, and the total alleged loss occasioned thereby $4,342,371, which, compared with the previous years, shows a diminution of 133 fires, and in amount of loss, $1,868,629.

Six steamers, sixteen tenders and three trucks, of an improved pattern, have been added during the year. Six more trucks are wanted during the next year, which will render the equipment of the Department complete.

The Chief recommends the purchase of 20,000 feet of new hose and the use of one style of coupling. He suggests placing hydrants on City piers, and says that experience has demonstrated that the river fronts are inadequately supplied with fresh water. He also suggests the purchase of a floating fire propeller. The Chief approves of the new code of signal stations, the placing of fuel wagons at convenient points, and of the excellent condition of the houses of the various companies.

The force is composed of a chief, one assistant, ten district engineers, and 580 officers and men, assigned to 52 companies, making an aggregate of 592 officers and men. During the past year two officers and five firemen have died.

In closing, the Chief Engineer says: "The promptness with which the members have obeyed all orders, and the cheerfulness with which they have conformed to the rigid discipline required of them, merits my sincere acknowledgments and warmest commendations."

Commissioner GALWAY as Treasurer reports the disbursements for the year 1868 at $959,822 86; for the payment of lien upon two engines, $14,752 32, leaving a balance on hand of $17,159 78.

During the year the Metropolitan Fire Department Relief Fund received $3,781 74.

Aid for the Indigent Aged Baptists.

A meeting was held last evening in Calvary (Twenty-third-street) Baptist Church, under the auspices of the Ladies' Home Society of the Baptist Church. The Society was organized during the past Winter for the purpose of establishing a home for those of the aged and infirm of the Baptist faith in this City who are destitute of the means of making the decline of life comfortable. Pledges to an endowment fund to the amount of $45,750 had already been made, but more was needed. The Ladies' Home Society makes an earnest appeal for aid in the good work. After the opening religious services last evening, conducted by Rev. Dr. BUCKLAND, Rev. Dr. HOLMES made a stirring address, in which he dwelt upon the duty that devolved upon them in connection with this matter, and bade them God speed in the great work. Rev. Dr. BISHOP explained that it was designed to erect a plain but substantial building, to cost not more than $100,000, and read a pledge of $5,000 each for the Society, signed by six gentlemen. Rev. Dr. ANDERSON made a strong appeal for aid, as did Rev. Dr. DOWLING, Rev. Dr. KENDRICKS, Mr. KNAPP and others. During the evening the sum of $8,000 was subscribed, and the exercises were closed with a benediction.

Annual Report of the Commissioners of Emigration.

From the annual report of the Commissioners of Emigration for the year 1868, it appears that the total number of passengers landed at this port, during the year 1868, amounted to 272,421, of whom 58,735 were citizens or persons not subject to bonds or commutation, while 213,686 were aliens, for whom commutation was paid, or bonds were executed. This statement shows a decrease in alien emigration of 29,041 from that of the year 1867, but an increase over the average of the previous twenty years, of 22,421. Of the total number of emigrants arrived during 1868, 101,989 were from Germany, 47,571 from Ireland, 29,695 from England, and 34,431 from other countries, showing a decrease of 37,182 in the emigration from Germany, Ireland and England, but an increase of 8,137 in the miscellaneous emigration. The most marked feature in this latter element is the greater number of emigrants from Sweden, which exceeds that of 1867 by nearly 10,000.

The report, in referring to the Insane Asylum, says:

"The Insane Asylum, with the augmented number of inmates, is now the least satisfactory department of the Ward's Island establishment. When the Commission found the necessity of providing for the care and treatment of this unfortunate class among the emigrants, its financial condition would not, in the opinion of the Board, justify the outlay required in the erection of a building for this especial purpose; consequently, one of the buildings on the island which had been erected for hospital uses, was altered and adapted to the purposes of an asylum, and having been approved, in 1851, by the Supervisors of the County, was appropriated for the reception and treatment of lunatic emigrants. Experience, as well as the reiterated statements of the Superintendent and Physician-in-Chief, that the present building is defective in many important respects for the treatment of such inmates, has confirmed the opinion of the Commissioners, expressed in previous reports, as to the necessity of a new building specially adapted to the treatment of all such cases, and large enough for future contingencies. The Commissioners accordingly resolved to erect a suitable building, and have appropriated $100,000 for this purpose. The subject has been referred to the Committee of Ward's Island, together with the President of the Board, and they are now receiving plans from the ablest architects experienced in designing such institutions, and it is hoped that the work will shortly be commenced."

In the institutions under the charge of the Commissioners, 26,499 persons were cared for during the year, being 1,013 more than in 1867, and a larger number than during any previous year since 1854.

From Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, the Labor Exchange procured employment for 31,143 emigrants, of whom 18,114 were males and 13,029 females. Of the males, by far the larger number were agricultural and common laborers; of the females, 474 were skilled laborers and 12,555 were house servants.

The report of the Labor Exchange Department says: "The States of New-York and New-Jersey have furnished employment to more immigrants than the rest of the United States together, and as long as no means are found to neutralize or avoid the difficulties and risks attending the transportation of laborers to more distant regions, this state of affairs will remain unchanged. The utility of this Department would in consequence remain circumscribed, a matter sincerely to be regretted; for, though in consideration of the short period of its existence, the Labor Exchange has been of great benefit to the immigrants, it has not been so to an extent commensurate with the number of arrivals at this port. The immigration from Europe to the Southern States has, for example, not been as large as, considering the dearth of labor there, might have been expected. It is true that there exists pretty general, and, perhaps, partially justifiable distrust on the part of the immigrants against the South, and the well-to-do class will for a time yet prefer the Northwestern and Western States, but the many advantages some sections of the South offer to the industrious but poorer portion of the immigrants (who are in most cases unable to pay their expenses of transportation) would be better appreciated and lead to more satisfactory results both for the Southern people and the immigrants, if some such plan were pursued by other districts as that adopted by the District of Newberry, South Carolina. Here an immigration society has been formed under the auspices of Rev. T. S. BOINEST, consisting of the most notable farmers and planters, who have raised a fund of $5,000 or $6,000 for the purpose of defraying the necessary traveling and other expenses of the European laborers they wish to employ. By this means the society, though existing but a short time, has induced about 200 immigrants to make Newberry their home, and according to the latest report received both the employers and employes are satisfied and content."

The Commissioners received from the Commutation and other funds, $602,349 36. The net cost of supporting the Ward's Island establishment was $230,940 67.

The Ladies' Fair for the Benefit of the Universalist Missions.

Wednesday evening was the opening night of the Universalist Mission Fair at the Everett Rooms, corner of Sixth-avenue and Thirty-fourth-street. As was announced in the TIMES of yesterday, this Fair is under the supervision of the ladies connected with the different Universalist churches of the City, the object being to procure funds for the erection of a church and school for the mission children. At an early hour the rooms were filled with a brilliant assemblage of ladies and gentlemen. The tables, covered with every imaginable kind of fancy articles, were placed at convenient distances around the hall, and were under the supervision of the following ladies: Mrs. Gabriel Kent, Mrs. B. F. Romaine, Mrs. S. Schunmaker, Mrs. Hally, Mrs. Gilmore, Mrs. Hewlett and Mrs. Smith. One of the features of the Fair is the table of Chinese and Japanese curiosities, presided over by Miss PETERS, whose taking ways took the money from the gentlemen's pockets with great facility. The flower table is under the care of Misses OAKLEY and ASHFIELD. During the evening music on the piano and cornet varied the entertainment. A Wheeler & Wilson and a Wilcox & Gibbs sewing-machine have been presented to the ladies, which are to be drawn by lot. A fine oil painting of Rev. Dr. CHAPIN, by LEWIS, will also be disposed of in the same way. The receipts of last evening were fully equal to the expectations of the managers, and the Fair will probably continue through to-day.

Labor Statistics.

From the report of the Castle Garden Labor Exchange, from March 16 to March 31, the following statistics are taken: Applicants for employment—males, 906; females, 633. Orders of employers for laborers—males, 1,152; females, 698. Persons employed—males, 935; females, 577. Among these were 23 families, comprising 65 persons. Average number of applicants, 110 per day; average number of orders, 121 per day; average number of engagements, 108 per day; average rate of monthly wages paid to males, $16 50; average rate of monthly wages paid to females, $10. Classification of emigrant labor—males, mechanical labor, 259; males, agricultural, 676; females, skilled labor, 27; females, unskilled, 550. Common school education of emigrants—males able to read and write, 812; males not able to read and write, 123; females not able to read and write, 128; females able to read and write, 449.

A Tombs Lawyer Locked Up on a Charge of Fraud.

Mrs. TERESA HYMAN, of No. 195 Mulberry-street, appeared yesterday before Justice DOWLING, at the Tombs Police Court, and stated that she had received, on the 12th inst., a card of a lawyer named EDWARD J. ANDERSON, through a messenger, who requested her to call upon him at his office in Broadway. She did call on the lawyer, when he stated that he had obtained her husband's bank book before his death, which occurred in the City Prison, where he had been committed on a charge of abandoning the complainant. ANDERSON stated to the woman that, as administratix of her husband's estate, she would be obliged to go before the Surrogate before he would give up the bank book, in which was entered a deposit of $250, and that he had already drawn the sum of $50 from the East River Savings Bank, as a remuneration for services rendered by him for the deceased, JOHN HYMAN, on a written order given by HYMAN. Mrs. HYMAN further stated her husband was unable to write and could not have given any such order. ANDERSON had refused to give up the bank book until the magistrate ordered him to do so, and when he did surrender it he kept the $50, although he had not performed any services therefor.

The Magistrate granted a warrant for the arrest of the accused, and he was arraigned before the Magistrate a few minutes before the hour for closing the Court. Mr. ANDERSON, on being informed of the nature of the offence charged against him, attempted to make an explanation. The Magistrate interrupted him and ordered the affidavit of Mrs. HYMAN to be read. ANDERSON stated that the deceased husband of the complainant had drawn the money himself on an affidavit before a notary public, and that he was in his sober senses at the time. That when he (ANDERSON) heard of the death of HYMAN he had sent for the wife and informed her of the fact that he had a bank-book, and instructed her how to proceed. The Magistrate remarked that he had once before stopped ANDERSON from practicing law in the Courts for over a year, and was persuaded afterward to remove the embargo. In the present instance he was determined to make him answer the complaint, and would endeavor to prevent him from appearing again in a Court of justice. ANDERSON again endeavored to make some explanation of the matter, and claimed that he had done nothing that could be construed into a misdemeanor; that his client had been committed by another Magistrate, and he knew nothing of Justice DOWLING's action in the case. "Yes," remarked the Magistrate, "if you knew I had had anything to do with it, you would have been more careful. You have swindled this unfortunate woman in a most heartless way, and I intend to see if you cannot be punished therefor." An offer to refund the money was indignantly refused by the Magistrate, and as Mr. ANDERSON was unable to procure the required $1,000 bail, the court being closed, he was sent down stairs to a cell in no amiable mood.

Charities and Correction.

The Commissioners of Charities and Correction held their fortnightly meeting yesterday. But little business of importance was laid before them. The consumption of coal, during March, in the Charity Hospital was reported at 185 tons; in the Bellevue Hospital, 202 tons; the Randall's Island school and hospitals, 150; the Lunatic Asylum, 136; the Workhouse, 105½; the Almshouse, 80; the Penitentiary, 49; the City Prison, 48, and the Inebriate Asylum, 101. Dr. J. HOWARD MORGAN, late Assistant Physician at the Lunatic Asylum, has resigned, and Dr. W. N. GUERNSEY has been appointed in his stead. Dr. PORTER has been named as Curator of the Charity Hospital, and Dr. WARREN SCHOOMAKER, Assistant Curator. Dr. W. L. HALL has resigned the position of Assistant Physician in the Epileptic and Paralytic Hospitals, and Dr. J. HOWARD MORGAN has replaced him. JOHN ORR has been appointed Deputy Night Warden of the City Prison, at a salary of $1,400, in place of DENNIS RYER. NICHOLAS MAHER has received the appointment of Steward of the Prison, and MARSH FINLEY has become Deputy Day Warden and Clerk, at $1,500 a year. Dr. KELLOGG, the senior Assistant Physician at the Lunatic Asylum, has had his salary increased to $1,000, including board. $102,993 11 has been received by the Department from 1st to 15th April, $100,000 of which was from the Comptroller, and the balance from the different institutions.

Anniversary of the Departure of the Seventh Regiment.

On Monday evening next the gallant Seventh Regiment, N. Y. N. G., will celebrate the ninth anniversary of its memorable departure for the South during the earliest days of the rebellion. The feature of the occasion will be the presentation of an elegant and costly set of colors, by Mayor HALL, on behalf of the Corporation of the City of New-York. The rooms are to be lavishly decorated, the sum of $5,000 having been appropriated for that purpose. Mr. NAST'S new picture, in oil, representing the departure of the regiment, has just been completed, and will be there exhibited for the first time. Fifteen hundred tickets, each admitting a gentleman and ladies, have been printed, and are nearly all disposed of. The affair will be superb in every particular.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

New-York.

Detective MULLEN, of the Fourth Ward, heard at an early hour yesterday morning the noise of an affray in the tenement-house No. 30 New Bowery, occupied by women of abandoned character. The officer on entering the premises found a man brutally beating one of the women. He immediately closed with the fellow for the purpose of arrest, when the latter assaulted him. While thus struggling, both men tumbled down a flight of stairs, the officer having one of the small bones in his ankle broken. The assailant escaped in the confusion.

Coroner ROLLINS was notified yesterday to take the ante-mortem statement of LOUIS REISS, the German who was run over and seriously injured by a Dry Dock car a few days ago. The main object of the statement seemed to be to secure the release of the car driver, who is alleged to be not to blame.

The consolidated bureau will be under charge of Mr. BANFIELD.

It is doubtful, it seems, whether car-drivers can be compelled to take out licenses. The State law of 1865 says: "The owner or owners of any railroad in this State may employ any inhabitant of the State, of the age of 21 years, as a car-driver or conductor, or in any other capacity, any law, regulation or ordinance to the contrary notwithstanding."

Dr. HODGE, and others; there was some good singing; and the collection resulted in raising $500, in cash, besides subscriptions amounting to one or two hundred dollars more.

The last $250 of the amount specified in the condition has been subscribed.

A fire broke out last night in the stable of JOHN BARRETT, corner of Navy and Tillary streets, and resulted in the total destruction of the building. Two horses were also burned to death. A meeting of citizens of the Eleventh Ward, Newark, was held at the Roseville Railroad depot on Wednesday evening, to consult upon measures for the better protection of that portion of the city against fires. Several destructive fires having recently occurred, and the Fire Department not having rendered any material assistance, it was resolved that a petition be presented to the Common Council asking for the establishment of a steam fire engine and hook and ladder truck in the Eleventh Ward, and a number of citizens were delegated to present the petition.

The gas works in Freehold were burned on Wednesday last. The cause is supposed to have been the explosion of a meter recently introduced at the gas works by the New-Jersey Pneumatic Gas Company, with whom the Freehold Gas Company had contracted to erect a new set of works, at a cost of $6,000. The loss is estimated at over $14,000, on which there is very little insurance.

A lager-beer saloon keeper named ERNEST FREUND, doing business at No. 620 High-street, Newark, was arrested yesterday, on a charge of having manufactured cigars without license, bond or stamps. FREUND was found at work, and 500 of the cigars were got on the premises. He was bailed for examination before Commissioner WHITEHEAD....On the same evening, ten boxes of cigars were seized in Mr. J. BOHME'S saloon, No. 123 South Orange-avenue, Newark, in consequence of the stamps on the boxes not having been cancelled. Mr. BOHME was discharged, but a Mr. SIMON DOEHM, from whom he had just bought the property, was arrested and held for examination.

An old man named GEORGE SCHWERE, employed for the past eight years at the Newark Zinc Works, was found dead in a boiler yesterday. On Wednesday he went to work cleaning a boiler while in his usual health, but not having returned home in the evening, and not having called for his fortnightly wages, a search was made, which resulted in the finding of the body in the boiler, with the head and shoulders protruding through the man-hole. It is supposed that death was caused by disease of the heart.
